DeGaulle Drubs The Leftwing Foes

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle's forces today unexpectedly overwhelmed his leftwing foes in the first round of parliamentary elections.

Official final results of Sunday's voting gave Gaullist candidates 9.6 million votes compared with 9.1 million for the Communists and all other leftwing parties.

The Gaullists won 43.6 per cent of the 22.5 million votes cast in metropolitan France compared with 37 per cent in the first round of the last parliamentary vote, held in March 1967. They won 142 seats and go into the runoffs leading another 150.

Under 1967 Tally

The Communist party won 20 per cent—4.4 million votes—compared with 22 per cent in 1967. They won only six seats outright and led in 23 others. The Federation of the Left won no seats—but 3.6 million votes, 16.5 per cent—and led in 48 seats. Other leftist groups won 1.1 million votes, 4.6 per cent of the vote, and no seats.

The center party—it preached a middle way between De Gaulle and the left—won four seats and led in 17, taking 2.2 million votes, 10.3 per cent.

Other rightwing and splinter parties won one million votes, four per cent. More than 300,000 ballots were declared void.

Communists Cry Foul

The Communists cried foul. De Gaulle's aides sipped a glass of champagne at the counting headquarters early today, as their triumph rolled in from Sunday's voting. Then they called on voters to complete their victory in next Sunday's runoff elections.

The experts had predicted that Gaullist forces would fail to increase their tiny majority in the national assembly. But French voters heeded De Gaulle's warning that their choice stood between his "strongman" regime and a Communist-organized "totalitarian dictatorship."

Communists Lose Ground

The results riled Communist leader Waldeck Rochet, whose party lost ground. "This blackmail by fear employed abusively by the Gaullist authorities enabled them to line up behind themselves all the reactionary forces and to deceive many Frenchmen of different opinions," he said.

De Gaulle had called the election after students took to the streets in rioting and Communist-led labor unions followed suit with a 10-million man national strike that threw France into chaos and threatened the end of De Gaulle's 10 years of power.

Socialists Gain

The only leftwingers to show a gain were the small unified Socialist party, a band of dissident Communists, Trotskyites and other far left advocates. But their leader, former Premier Pierre Mendes-France, fighting for reelection at Grenoble, was pushed humiliatingly into a runoff by Gaullist Jean-Marcel Jeanneney, who edged him by more than 3,000 votes.

In the first round a candidate had to win a majority of the votes to win his seat outright. If no one got a majority, the race went into next Sunday's runoffs in which a winner needs only a plurality.

Of De Gaulle's cabinet ministers, 21 were elected outright. Seven faced runoffs. Among those elected already were Premier Georges Pompidou, Finance Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, Foreign Minister Michel Debre and Defense Minister Pierre Messmer.

De Gaulle himself, as president, did not have to run in the parliamentary voting.

GIs in Saigon Are on 'Red Alert'

By GEORGE ESPER

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers today smashed a Viet Cong training center 13 miles from Saigon.

The B52s, have bombed closer to the capital only once. Last Feb. 13, at the height of the Viet Cong's Tet offensive on Saigon, they struck a suspected enemy troop concentration 10.5 miles north of Saigon.

Secondary Explosion

The U.S. Command said ground observers in the training camp area southeast of the capital reported that secondary explosions lasted for six minutes after the eight-engine bombers left the site. A secondary explosion means ammunition or fuel went up after the 500- and 750-pound bombs have exploded.

In the last two weeks, the B52s have flown nearly 100 missions within a 75-mile radius of the capital, trying to cut infiltration corridors from the Cambodian border and prevent enemy troops from massing or a threatened attack on Saigon next month.

United Press International said today that in downtown Saigon, 13 miles away, the earth trembled from the dump explosions.

GIs on 'Red Alert'

U.S. intelligence sources said the bombing was especially timely. They said American forces inside Saigon went on "Red Alert" this afternoon because a third major Communist assault on the capital was going up after the 500- and 750-

The alert sent GIs to their posts in five of Saigon's eight precincts, whole blocks of the areas already rubbed by Viet Cong-North Vietnamese attacks in February and May.

Only the downtown area and two residential districts, to the west and north, were bypassed in the alert, according to the sources. Despite Viet Cong threats, these districts have been spared the street and house-to-house fighting that marked guerrilla attempts to cripple allied control of this city of 2.2 million residents.

In a broadcast monitored in Tokyo today, the North Vietnamese news agency said an unmanned U.S. reconnaissance plane was shot down Sunday over Hanoi.

In five raids Sunday, the B52s aimed at enemy troop concentrations and infiltration routes in Phuoc Long Province, next to the Cambodian border 75 miles north of Saigon.

Saigon was spared of any shelling for the third consecutive day today, but the Viet Cong shelled two airfields, a province capital and four government military posts.

Government headquarters said the shelling killed two government soldiers and wounded six soldiers and 15 Vietnamese civilians.

It was the quietest night in two months in the capital and almost everywhere else in the country. U.S. sources said the enemy likely may be "laying back" to receive replacements, retrain, refit and resupply for fresh attacks.

Hanoi Radio rejected a U.S. appeal for a halt to the shelling of Saigon saying North Vietnam is "ready to fight the U.S. aggressors anywhere in Vietnam." The broadcast also said the Communist-led forces have "a solemn, inviolable right" to defend the sovereignty of Vietnam and warned they would intensify their attacks on Saigon and other areas of South Vietnam.

Some Stay to Be Arrested

WASHINGTON

(UPI)—Police in riot garb began evacuating Resurrection City today after a handful of inhabitants of the shantytown of the Poor People's Campaign defied an order to move out voluntarily.

There was no apparent resistance to the police action. Wearing protective crash helmets and carrying night sticks, Washington Metropolitan Police moved into the muddy campsite after a deadline ended with the poverty campaigners' showing no signs of complying with a "get out or get arrested" ultimatum.

Sparsely Populated

The encampment where the poor have lived for six weeks was sparsely populated when the police sweep began.

Most of the residents had left Resurrection City to follow the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy on a protest march to the Agriculture Department and Congress.

With more than 1,000 Washington Metropolitan Police and U.S. Park Police in the vicinity, the shotgun-armed policemen conducted a house-to-house search of the 836 a-frame huts.

About 100 persons, including "direct action" coordinator Hosea Williams, remained in the camp to be arrested.

Almost all of the small children and elderly had been encouraged to depart the city after the legal permit for the poor to camp on government grounds ended at 8 p.m. EDT Sunday. Several carloads of children and oldsters were taken to other places during the night.

The showdown began less than 14 hours after the legal permit to camp on the grounds expired.

Several hundred police took up stations a few yards from the compound shortly before 10 a.m. EDT.

Those in the city were then instructed over police loudspeakers they must leave the site at 10:42 a.m. EDT—one hour from the time of the announcement.

Abernathy outlined the plans before leading the march from the campsite.

"I will pay a visit to the Department of Agriculture and Secretary (Orville) Freeman to once again tell him about the hunger in this land," Abernathy told reporters.

"From there, I will go to the Congress to ask to be heard by both House and the Senate on this hunger question.

It is doubtful that I would be granted the opportunity of speaking to the Congress from its floor," Abernathy said. He said he would then try to buttonhole congressmen on the capitol premises.

"It is likely that I will be arrested and my people with me," he said.

The leader of the Poor People's campaign again vowed that residents of Resurrection City would not leave the 15-acre site near the Lincoln Memorial.

Between 100 and 200 of Abernathy's followers mustered at the Lincoln Memorial entrance of the encampment today, then paraded through Resurrection City onto the mall which stretches next to the Agriculture Department and runs up to the foot of Capitol. The evacuation development came as the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy was leading a protest march of the poor against the Agriculture Department and Congress, daring authorities to arrest him and his followers.

Several hundred police took up stations a few yards from the shantytown headquarters of the Poor People's Campaign shortly before 10 a.m. EDT.

Those in the encampment were then told they must begin leaving the site at 10:42 a.m. EDT or face arrest and prosecution for camping on federal property without a permit.

The showdown came less than 14 hours after the legal permit for the poverty marchers to occupy the grounds near the Lincoln Memorial expired at 8 p.m. EDT Sunday.

The police order declared: "The permit for use of this property has expired. You must leave the camp by 10:42 this morning to avoid arrest and prosecution."

"If you have no other means of returning home, you will be provided free bus transportation by the Travelers Aid Society. Shuttle buses are now available at the west side of the Lincoln Memorial to take you at no cost to the bus station."

Liddy volunteered, "Boss John Sterley is finished and I am happy to have had a part in finishing him."

Married and the father of five children, Liddy who does not have a private law practice, said he has funds left over from the primary campaign and expects more financial support to be forthcoming from the public.

Of his past and possible future campaigns, he said the stress on the issues such as crime, Vietnam, taxation and the federal economy will remain the same. "The issues haven't changed since last Tuesday."

Liddy said his present campaign office remains open, his staff remains and will be augmented.

Well Wishes

In accepting the resignation John R. Heilman Jr., district attorney of Dutchess County, said "I appreciate that Liddy has decided not to compromise the duties in this office with his own personal plans. I wish him well."

Liddy, who in the past has had difficulty in getting Fish to debate with him has already been in forum with the Democrat Dyson and has a number of them already lined up for the future.

Asked if he felt Fish would now be willing to debate him Liddy said "I don't know if Fish can ever be challenged to stand on his own two feet."

Liddy's next press conference will be held in about four weeks at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston. He plans a vacation in the interim.

A Papal Plea: Far-Ranging

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI called today for a complete cease-fire in Vietnam and Nigeria and appealed to Arabs and Israelis: "Don't take up arms again!"

The 70-year-old Pope made his strong and urgent appeals for peace in a long speech to members of the College of Cardinals who called on him to commemorate his name day, the feast of St. John the Baptist.

The Pope's secular first name, Giovanni, means John in Italian.

The Pope said a cease-fire in Vietnam by both sides could help to break the impasse in the current, Paris peace talks between the United States and North Vietnam and make a solution "relatively near and easy."

He called on both sides in the long and bloody Nigerian civil war to lay down their arms and "seek again the basis of a true and stable peace" despite the failure of recent peace talks.

And he urged the Arabs and Israelis not to widen their conflict, especially to Lebanon where fighting recently took place.

It was the most far-ranging appeal for peace the Pope has made in several months. He dwelt first of all with Vietnam.

Coast Fire Raging

LOS ANGELES (AP)—California's first major brush fires of the year raged on today after ravaging thousands of acres of tinder-dry park land.

A blaze in Angeles National Forest, a watershed area 40 miles north of Los Angeles, has burned more than 40,000 acres in the Liebre Mountain area since Friday.

It was reported 50 per cent contained, fire officials said. A second blaze about 16 miles east, in the huge forest's Bouquet Canyon section, charred more than 3,500 acres before it was brought under control late Sunday.

Water Threat Lifted

The blessings of the late spring rains, after an abnormally dry April that made water officials uneasy, were cited by officials all over the area.

Candy Not So Sweet

(UPI INTERNATIONAL)

Tropical storm Candy rushed through central Texas today, spawning tornadoes, high winds, heavy rain and flash flooding.

The U. S. Weather Bureau today warned eastern Texas residents to beware of flash flooding later today as the rains from Candy spread northward.

A rainfall from the storm was expected to amount to six inches in some areas of east Texas.

Candy's big sister, Brenda, a full-blown hurricane, moved northeastward in the Atlantic Ocean away from Bermuda and toward the open sea.

The Metric Question

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States faces a measurement gap widening inch by inch, pound by pound, as more world neighbors adopt the metric system.

"Recently, the situation seems to have become critical," says John F. Kincaid, assistant commerce secretary.

Today, the House called up for consideration a bill which would authorize a three-year study to determine whether the United States also should go metric.

The Senate passed similar legislation two years ago, but it died in the House. This year the Senate is waiting to see what the House does.

Liddy Quits DA Office; November Congress Run?

By LYNN MULVANEY

G. Gordon Liddy, defeated candidate for the GOP Congressional nomination, resigned his post as assistant District Attorney of Dutchess County this morning in order to "clear the decks for action" in case he decides within the month to run in the November election.

Should he decide to take the plunge he would run as an Independent Republican as well as a Conservative.

Liddy, who was defeated in last Tuesday's primary by Dutchess County Lawyer Hamilton Fish Jr. with a 3,380 vote plurality, carried Dutchess County by 800 votes. It was this defeat of the Republican organization in his own county which prompted Liddy to entertain thoughts of his own candidacy.

Would Face 3

Should Liddy decide to run, he would face Fish, John Dyson, Democratic candidate and Peter DuFaut, who has the Liberal endorsement.

Liddy said his resignation was given now so that when and if he announces his candidacy he can "go to work immediately."

The former FBI man, who is known for his curbing of narcotic traffic, said that if he goes in, he will go all the way. "You know me, no halfway measures."

He said he will make his decision "when and if I am convinced I have a good possibility of winning."

Liddy who made his resignation known this morning at a Poughkeepsie press conference said he has yet to receive a final primary vote count.

When he does, he said he would make an in depth analysis of his and Fish's strength.

'Freeze-Out'

Referring to a "freeze-out" imposed on him by the Ulster County GOP during the primary campaign, Liddy said he Congressman Gerald Ford (R-Mich.), attended a reception given by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. Saturday at the famed Rokeby House in Barrytown. The House Minority Leader took the occasion to praise the candidacy of Fish and blasted the Democratic administration and the representation of Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick. Story on page 28.

now feels he could do better as a vote getter in Ulster due to the Republican organization's recent failure here to obtain a victory for its assembly candidate.

Liddy volunteered, "Boss John Sterley is finished and I am happy to have had a part in finishing him."

Married and the father of five children, Liddy who does not have a private law practice, said he has funds left over from the primary campaign and expects more financial support to be forthcoming from the public.

Chicago Cleric Called On Church, Gang Link

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators today summoned a Chicago minister to answer charges by a deposed gang leader that his church was used as an arsenal and dope cache for tough South Side Chicago's biggest street gang.

John Fry, pastor of a South Side Presbyterian church, was subpoenaed by the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, studying a $927,300 Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) grant to two Chicago gangs—the Blackstone Rangers and the Devil's Disciples. The program was designed to teach youths occupational skills.

It has been charged that the grant was made as a payoff to the gangs to keep the peace on South Chicago streets.

Gang Leader Testifies
Last Friday, the deposed head of the Rangers, George Rose, 23, made charge after charge against Fry in testimony to the subcommittee.

Rose, who according to subcommittee staff members was under a death sentence from his former gang, said Rev. Fry advised gang members to store molotov cocktails on top of buildings in case of trouble with police. The minister also let gang members store weapons — including 15 sawed off carbines and at least 18 hand grenades — in his church, Rose testified.

Rose's testimony has been vigorously disputed both by Fry and OEO officials. Fry said he would ask the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to cite Rose for contempt of Congress for "multiple perjury."

Jeff "Angel" Fort, current chief of the Blackstone Rangers, was to testify Tuesday and is expected to dispute Rose's testimony.

Denies Weapons Arsenal
Deputy Director Bertrand M. Harding of OEO said in a statement Sunday the OEO was never informed by Chicago police about alleged arsenals of weapons stockpiled in the church. He also said monitoring teams of the antipoverty agency "never disclosed evidence of weapons caches."

Winston Moore, first Negro superintendent of the Cook County (Chicago) Jail and former Illinois Youth Commission psychologist, last week described the grant as "a payoff program, an attempt to bribe Woodlawn kids not to riot. Every gang in Chicago... wondered... 'Why don't they pay me?'"

Fry, in a message to his Chicago congregation Sunday, branded the previous committee witnesses — specifically Moore and Rose — as "mere lackeys."

"They deserve no contempt from you," he said in a statement read by an associate minister. "I hope you have the natural sophistication to see the structure of racist power ranged against us. By now it should come as no jolt to you that the general Chicago community has no taste for police about alleged arsenals of weapons stockpiled in the church. He also said monitoring

Iceland Talks: Slender Hope

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON | The ministers met in the theater of the University of Iceland — Statesmen of the North Atlantic Alliance met today in quest of an East-West pact cutting back arms and armies in Mid-Europe but with slender hopes of early success.

Initial signals from Moscow suggested to top authorities here that the Russians, concerned with getting their Warsaw Pact allies back into line, at this time want no part in a program of military reductions.

Foreign ministers of NATO member nations met today when youths mean nevertheless to push ahead because their arms-cutting initiative has a parallel and purpose: It is to insure that 15-nation partnership do not begin withdrawing from their forces, or reducing their firepower, from mainland Europe.

This purpose is likely to be embodied in a resolution, or many, by the foreign ministers. It will have the effect of helping of the late leader of Britain's governments like the United States, Belgium and Canada resist domestic pressures for a moment in what would become withdrawal of troops.

Blame Matches For Cornell Fire

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—A fire Cornell University officials said apparently was caused by two young girls playing with matches has destroyed three dairy barns at the State College of Agriculture at Cornell. Damage was estimated at $250,000 to $500,000.

Three city firemen who fought the fire Saturday were hospitalized.

Forty sheep in one of the barns were killed. About 75 dairy cows were saved.

A Cornell spokesman said two girls, aged 10 and 13, apparently set hay afire accidentally. They were not injured, the spokesman said.

The damage estimate was made by Lowell T. George, Cornell's supervisor of public safety.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Britain's Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart greets West Germany's Foreign Minister Willy Brandt (R) at a meeting in Reykjavik, Iceland, prior to the opening of the annual summer meeting of NATO ministers today. Chicago Cleric Called On Church, Gang Link

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators today summoned a Chicago minister to answer store molotov cocktails on top charges by a deposed gang leader that his church was used as an arsenal and dope cache for tough South Side Chicago's biggest street gang.

John Fry, pastor of a South Side Presbyterian church, was subpoenaed by the Senate permanent investigating subcommittee, studying a $927,309 Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) grant to two Chicago gangs—the Blackstone Rangers and the Devil's Disciples. The program was designed to teach youths occupational skills.

It has been charged that the grant was made as a payoff to the gangs to keep the peace on south Chicago streets.

Gang Leader Testifies

Last Friday, the deposed head of the Rangers, George Rose, 23, made charge after charge against Fry in testimony to the subcommittee.

Rose, who according to subcommittee staff members was under a death sentence from his former gang, said Rev. Fry advised gang members to store molotov cocktails on top of buildings in case of trouble with police. The minister also let gang members store weapons — including 15 sawed-off carbines and at least 18 hand grenades—in his church, Rose testified.

Rose's testimony has been vigorously disputed both by Fry and OEO officials. Fry said he would ask the subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., to cite Rose for contempt of Congress for "multiple perjury."

Jeff "Angel" Fort, current chief of the Blackstone Rangers, is expected to dispute Rose's testimony.

Denies Weapons Arsenal

Deputy Director Bertrand M. Harding of OEO said in a statement Sunday the OEO was never informed by Chicago police about alleged arsenals of black weapons stockpiled in the politically independent organization. He also said monitoring teams of the antipoverty agency "never disclosed evidence of weapons caches."

Winston Moore, first Negro superintendent of the Cook County (Chicago) Jail and former Illinois Youth Commission psychologist, last week described the grant as "a payoff program, an attempt to bribe Woodlawn kids not to riot. Every gang in Chicago... wondered... 'Why don't they pay me?'"

Fry, in a message to his Chicago congregation Sunday, branded the previous committee witnesses — specifically Moore and Rose — as "mere lackeys."

Iceland Talks: Slender Hope

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

The ministers met in the theater of the University of Iceland against a background of sporadic Communist-led demonstrations protesting the presence of American military bases in this windswept mid-Atlantic territory.

A protest march which began Sunday at the American air and naval base at Keflavik ended here around midnight with a demonstration outside the headquarters of Iceland's small but active Communist party.

New trouble flared in the capital early today when youths stoned the Communist party headquarters. Police moved in and fights broke out. There were several arrests, but no member of the party was injured.

A series of proposals prepared for ministerial scrutiny featured the British government's revival of the so-called "Gaitskill plan" for the disengagement of East-West forces in the two Germanys, Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

This plan, bearing the name of the late leader of Britain's governments like the United States, Belgium and Canada real reduction of forces and assist domestic pressures for a moment in what would become withdrawal of troops.

Ulster County Man Killed In Sullivan Car Accident

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Traffic accidents on highways in New York State claimed the lives of 21 persons including an Ulster County man who was killed Saturday when his car overturned on Route 209 near Summitville in Sullivan County, and a 26-year-old Dutchess County man who lost his life in a mishap in the Town of Washington.

Ferndale State Police said Fred Knapp, 63, of Spring Glen, was killed Saturday in a 2-car mishap on Route 209 near the Sullivan County community of Summitville. Troopers reported the Ulster County man swerved to avoid hitting an unidentified vehicle that stopped suddenly in front of his 1966 car.

Ejected From Car

Knapp was traveling south on the highway when his car went out of control and overturned three times. The man was ejected from his vehicle and he rolled under the wheels of a 1963 car operated by John Hamlin, 64, of Washington, N. J. That vehicle passed over the body of Knapp, who died of a broken neck and fractured skull, troopers said.

Gordon Paul Mackey, of Route 44, Pleasant Valley, was injured fatally at 4 a. m. Sunday when his car overturned and he was ejected on Route 44 in the Town of Washington near Millbrook, Dover Plains State Police said. Mackey's car was westbound when it failed to negotiate a curve and skidded 485 feet, knocking down two guard posts before slamming into a tree.

Mackey, troopers said, was not using his seat belt. He was ejected as the vehicle rolled over and came to rest on its roof.

Youth Injured, Gun Discharges

A 17-year-old New York City youth was accidentally wounded when the gun of a friend discharged as they walked along Kromville Road at Kripplbush in the Town of Marletown shortly after 4:30 p. m. Sunday.

State Police Senior BCI Investigator J. J. Buckley of Ellenville said Samuel Antonallei, of 1315 Findlay Avenue, Manhattan, was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for a bullet wound of the left side of his neck. He was later transferred by Doctors Ambulance Service to Albany Medical Center.

Troopers reported Antonallei and Charles Kenneth, of 234 East 121st Street, and Martin Nieves, of 65 East 99th Street, both Manhattan, were walking along the road when a .22 caliber rifle Nieves was carrying over his shoulder accidentally discharged and the bullet hit Antonallei.

Weekend Gunfire Kills 189, Homicides Include Almost All

Gunfire killed 189 persons in the United States, a week-long survey by The Associated Press shows, and most of the deaths were homicides. The survey, ended at midnight Sunday, was taken during the same week President Johnson signed an anticrime bill containing gun-control provisions.

The shooting deaths included 109 homicides, 64 suicides and 16 accidents.

Loose Traffic Blamed

In 1966, the last year for which FBI figures are available, there was an average of 125 homicides a week.

Demands for tighter gun-control measures were made after the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—all killed by guns.

Proponents of gun control blame loose traffic in firearms for thousands of deaths each year.

President Johnson signed an omnibus anticrime bill last Wednesday, which contained a gun-control section. More stringent laws on gun control are being considered by Congress.

Two of the provisions in the crime bill:

—Prohibit interstate mail-order sales of handguns and also their over-the-counter sale to nonresidents of a state and to people under 21.

—Make illegal the possession of any firearms by felons, mental incompetents, aliens illegally in the country, Americans who have renounced their citizenship and veterans who receive other than an honorable discharge.

A measure pending before Congress and sponsored by the President would ban mail-order sales of all firearms, including rifles and shotguns.

The AP survey, begun mid-night Sunday, June 16, showed gunfire in Texas claimed 20 lives, the greatest number of any state, homicides there accounted for 14 deaths, almost double the next highest states—Illinois, 16, California, 13, Michigan and Ohio, 10.

Most Suicides in Illinois

Illinois had the most suicide shootings, 7, and Tennessee and Georgia the greatest number of accidental shooting deaths, 3.

Four homicides occurred Saturday night in Chicago—one of which police commented was "just one of those circumstances where a gun is too readily available."

Andrew J. Toman, Cook County (Chicago) coroner, reported during the week that more persons died in the county from gun wounds during 1967 than died in automobile accidents. He said 607 firearms deaths were reported compared with 591 traffic fatalities.

With the rising public concern over the availability of firearms two of the nation's largest mail order houses announced changes during the week in firearms sale policy.

Sears Bans Mail Sales

all purchase of guns through mail and Montgomery Ward and Co. stipulated that all mail orders must be picked up in person, at stores or catalogue order outlets.

Ward's also announced all purchasers of firearms at its downtown Chicago store will be photographed at the time the sale is made. The change in policy came, company officials said, in cooperation with local authorities enforcing a recently passed gun registration ordinance.

Body Found on Shore

The badly decomposed body of a man was found Saturday afternoon on the east shore of the Hudson River about a mile north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, according to Rhinebeck State Police. The body was removed to the Charles E. Hutchens Funeral Home in Red Hook. Efforts are being made to identify the victim. Troopers said the body had no clothing and no marks of identification. It was impossible to take fingerprints, authorities said.

Motorists Pay Fines

Twenty motorists cited by Kingston police for vehicle and traffic law violations today appeared before City Judge Hubert A. Richter and paid a total of $180 in fines.

"From Cradle to Crime"

California's Gov. Ronald Reagan at best is a very controversial figure. However, on the matter of the crime explosion, we think he said a mouthful the other day at a fund-raising dinner in Indianapolis.

"In our humanitarian society, we have rightfully safeguarded the rights of the accused, but we have carried this to an excessive concern for the guilty," Reagan said. "Permissiveness from cradle to crime is our philosophy. What were once considered privileges are now recognized as rights, and first and foremost is the right to adjust any personal grievance by the nearest means at hand, be it rock, club or fire-bomb."

Obviously, the Governor had in mind the civil disturbances and student rebellions of recent months, in which rocks, clubs and fire-bombs were the weapons of the demonstrators. The instigators of the student rebellion at Columbia University have boasted that they plan to start 25 more Columbias this fall, and with 25 they will have enough to turn campus life throughout the country upside down.

Observers found a new and extremely dangerous element, deplored even by some left-leaning professors, in the college rebellions. To the new, violent, permissively-reared students, no argument or reason from the other side is tolerated. Anything or anyone opposed to them is to be mercilessly crushed. Destroy, not repair, not change, is the cry of this belligerent force in our colleges and on our streets. The word "anarchy" was used in speaking of it.

Reagan blames permissiveness for this dread force, but the nice, liberal parents who used to talk, to write, to "reason" are only half of it. They only provided the field where the enemy hid fire-bombs. Now the Red anarchists have torn away the topsoil and have brought out tyranny, violence, intolerance, destruction, murder, terror. The kids who were allowed to smash their toys while their elders advocated loving trust, even of revolutionaries, are the willing tools of this belligerent force.

Now is almost past the time to gather all men of good will, whether once deceived or not, to stop the crushing of our leaders and institutions, or we will soon sit in sackcloth and ashes on the ruins of our country, and there will be no freedom anywhere.

Assured Income

While the Mayors of the country decided to lobby for an assured income plan for all people unable to work and whose income falls below the poverty level, a large majority of the American people opposed a guaranteed annual income as shown by a Gallup poll. However, they overwhelmingly approved enough work to allow each family to earn above the poverty level or better.

An assured income is something the poor people's campaign is seeking in Washington. So far, it has not impressed Congress, which is looking not for ways to spend more money but to reduce government spending.

The idea got nowhere at the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Chicago the first time it was brought up. Then Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York and Mayor Carl B. Stokes of Cleveland teamed together and reopened the question. Lindsay swung the conference with his plea for an entirely new national program to replace "the bankrupt welfare apparatus."

Western Mayors, who opposed an assured income on the ground that it was a form of creeping socialism that would underwrite the lazy, the shiftless and the drunk were overwhelmed. Lindsay's assertion that the present welfare bureaucracies tend to keep the poor locked into poverty carried the day.

The Mayors also called for federal programs to provide one million new public service jobs for the unemployed, but they did not explain whether this would be useful occupation or a boondoggle. However, they were on safer ground here, as the Gallup poll revealed.

While nearly two-thirds of those polled opposed an assured income, more than three-fourths approved a guarantee of enough work so that each family that has an employable wage earner would earn a wage of $3,200 a year, the recognized floor for a family of four. Americans showed their native intelligence by this choice. They want to give a self-supporting job, not charity.

Fifty-five years ago, Charles P. Taft at age 11 used to relieve the switchboard operator for lunch at the White House. His father, William Howard Taft, was President. Today, communications at the White House require the around the clock services of scores of highly trained technicians.

Though Jordan lost a third of its area in the 6-day war with Israel, it has to support 400,000 more people. They are new refugees from the lost west bank territory and from the Gaza Strip. The population squeeze in a small country is almost intolerable.

As the Twig Is Bent---

David Lawrence Says

The Greatest Nation Faces Moral Crisis

WASHINGTON — Congress has a real problem on its hands in the closing months of the session, as disorder in the country has become extraordinary. The people are demanding that something be done.

The most affluent and greatest nation in the world is in the midst of a moral crisis. Crime continues to rise month after month. Violence is rampant, robberies are frequent, and people are afraid to go out on the streets. Police often are scared or are not allowed to make arrests, and the courts tend to release criminals on technicalities.

Members of congress from all over the country are becoming more and more concerned with the expressions of discontent and dissatisfaction which they are receiving from their constituents. This was reflected in the passage of the anti-crime bill. It provides some financial assistance to state and local law enforcement agencies, and contains a watered-down provision for gun control. But much more is needed.

At the senate prayer breakfast a few days ago, senator Frank Carlson of Kansas who is retiring at the end of the current session after 18 years in congress — summarized the basic issue in these words:

"Modern Americans have accepted and are tolerating conditions never before permitted by any generation of our ancestors."

"Never has wild pleasure or physical abandonment been considered fitting human behavior as it is today."

"Never have public officials been so brazen and open in seeking the vote of the people through promises of things that are morally and spiritually wrong."

"Never have ministers of physical abandonment been the gospel turned their pulpits and their pastoral duties toward direction of the social order to the near exclusion of the salvation of order as abounds in our time."

Only this week the American people read of a decision of the supreme court of the United States which relied on technicalities of law in disregard of principles of morality. The court declared invalid regulations by the state of Alabama denying aid to dependent children when mothers "cohabit" with men other than their husbands. The state argued that the purpose of its regulations was to discourage illicit sexual relationships and illegitimacy. The ruling of the nation's highest court seems, however, to condone adultery and encourage more illegitimacy.

There has long been criticism that some government "welfare" programs were having such a result. A subcommittee of the joint economic committee of congress, for instance, is currently holding hearings on various proposals for assistance to the poor. At Tuesday's session representative Martha W. Griffiths, democrat of Michigan, sharply criticized a plan of the office of economic opportunity as one that would "subsidize bastardy."

This week people read about or saw on their television screens the culmination of the "poor people's march" on Washington. These "demonstrators," in fact, ignored the governing bodies in states, counties, cities and towns across the nation from which they could seek redress and relief.

At the same time, however, people wonder why the vast "anti-poverty" programs are not providing aid to the poor and others who really need it. Question have been raised for years as to the efficiency of governmental agencies in helping the deserving needy. The charge is often heard that there is waste running into hundreds of millions of dollars in the handling of "welfare" programs. These criticisms are becoming far more pressing now as publicity is given to the fact that thousands may be suffering from hunger or malnutrition.

Americans have been contributing billions of dollars annually to private institutions for charitable purposes, and they are not averse to having their tax money spent for help to the needy, particularly where children are concerned. Their dissatisfaction today is based on a feeling that funds intended for assistance to those deserving it are being diverted to other ends.

The American people are disturbed about what is happening throughout the country, and about the failure of congress and the executive departments to deal effectively with these problems. This will be big issue in the forthcoming campaign.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There are 35,000 computers worth $13 billion and they never stop thinking. They never sleep. They never get tired. They never make a mistake. They have your number.

The two greatest steps ever taken by man were the discovery of nuclear power and the computer. Both occurred in the middle of the 20th century. The first cheapened his life; the second rendered his mind obsolescent. He cannot continue to master them until he learns to master himself.

Two years ago, David Sarnoff wrote: "In just 10 years, the typical electronic data processor has become 10 times smaller, 100 times faster, and a thousand times less expensive to operate."

"A decade ago, our machines were capable of 12 billion computations an hour; today they can do more than twenty trillion. By 1976, they will attain 400 trillion, or about two billion computations per hour for every man, woman and child. The threshold of the computer age has barely been crossed."

Big numbers are dizzying. Jerry Carlson of Farm Management put it another way: "At least a dozen computers have touched your life since you woke up this morning. They're processing your checks, keeping your credit card accounts, figuring the averages on the market, predicting tomorrow's weather and ordering the proper mix for your breakfast sausage."

To reduce a computer to the absurd, it is 1 and 0 carried out to the nth power and processed to remember everything into it. What can it do? Human mentalities are still trying to measure the limits. Not long ago, a computer designed a more sophisticated computer.

It can do the work of many lawyers—in seconds—looking up to legal precedents. The U.S. Army has one that will store a full-scale campaign against the enemy. If the enemy weapons, men and capabilities are fed into it, the machine will tell the generals who will win. A computer watches over a telephone system, temporarily repairs itself when a part fails, then tells the repairmen what went wrong.

Computers are being programmed for hospitals. They will culture bacteria, analyze them and identify diseases for the pathologist. The U.S. Government has one that will spew out the names of the best men for a job vacancy and will select the men by training, experience and temperament. One railroad leases a computer that tells it where any one of its 36,000 freight cars are at any moment. A computer can tell man how to microfilm every item in the Library of Congress and store all of it in one cubic yard of space.

The computers' opinion of man is merciful. Most of them, when asked about man, stutter over a sheet of paper and say that, if he is properly employed within his limitations, he can be useful. In "The Dynamics of Change," Dan Fabun says: "The physical world appears to be a 'yes' or 'no' universe; it can only be reconstructed through a large sampling of yes's and no's." There may be a time limit on how long we will be permitted to say either.

"The computer has become an extension of the human brain," Fabun says, "just as surely as the telescope and microscope became extensions of the eyes, the telephone became the extension of the mouth, and the steam shovel the extension of the arms and hands." Our television comedians make jokes about computers. The day is not far off when the computer will write them.

The human brain can do something the computer cannot. It can do initiative thinking about philosophy and romance and deceit. The mind occupies about a third of one cubic foot and uses 10 watts of energy to get in and out of trouble. The mathematician John von Neumann calculated that, if everything that ever happened to an average 60-year-old person was properly stored in the mind, he would be able to recall 280 quintillion items of information. I have trouble remembering whether von Neumann is spelled with two n's or one.

The advantage of the computer over the brain would appear to be speed and accuracy. The machine can solve 55 billion problems in addition in one second. In a simple problem like 1 plus 1, the human mind requires one-tenth of a second to scan the figures, after which the brain gives the answer to the tongue: "2."

Assuming that the machine hasn't got a better answer,

Those Who Boo Humphrey Have Very Short Memories

Poultry Inspection.
On February 6, 1968, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson called attention to the need for poultry inspection. They quoted from a hitherto unpublished report by the Agriculture Department on the deplorable conditions in intrastate poultry plants. This started a drive in Congress for a new poultry inspection bill.

On June 13, the House of Representatives passed a poultry inspection bill. It still has to pass the Senate.

WASHINGTON — Most significant and ironic twist to the Solidarity March before the Lincoln Memorial last week took place when Vice President Humphrey was introduced.

Approximately 50,000 people were spread out in the park stretching out like an army of the Philistines as far as the eye could see. In the crowd were Negroes and whites, some of them poor, many not poor who had come to the Capital in sympathy with the Poor People's goals.

As Vice President Humphrey was introduced to that vast crowd there were boos.

Those who booed did not remember another occasion exactly 20 years ago, almost to the month, when the same Hubert Humphrey was also booed. The occasion was the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in July, 1948. The crowd was smaller than that in Washington last week only because 50,000 people could not get into the convention hall.

And Hubert Humphrey was not as well known as he is today. He was a relatively obscure mayor of a medium sized city — Minneapolis. Despite his obscurity, however, he got up in the Platform Committee, and later on the floor of the convention, and demanded that the Democratic party adopt an unequivocal plank endorsing civil rights.

Probably no move since the days of slavery was so bitterly received as Humphrey's motion, nor so savagely debated. In the end the East, West and North voted with Humphrey for civil rights. But the South walked out. It formed its own third party under Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and nearly defeated Harry Truman, then running for re-election against Gov. Tom Dewey.

Short Memories
Running with Tom Dewey for Vice President was Gov. Earl Warren of California. If Dewey and Warren had been elected, the history of the Supreme Court today might have been different. But they were not elected; and, as an aftermath, Warren later became Chief Justice where he personally wrote the most important decision of the century — the school integration decree of 1954.

It backed up the courageous civil rights doctrine which Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis had battled for in 1948.

These were some of the things which the crowd at the Lincoln Memorial forgot when they booed the Vice President last week.

They also forgot many other more recent events. Or perhaps they never knew about them; because poor people don't always read the newspapers and anyway some of the things Humphrey has been doing were never in the papers. As Vice President it was his job, until recently, to keep out of the limelight.

But no one man was more responsible for keeping race riots down in the big cities last summer than HHH. He walked the streets of Watts, Calif., the Longdale section of Chicago, the Hough district of Cleveland, the Negro jungle of Philadelphia.

This year and last he dedicated over a thousand new parks in the slum areas, launched a huge sports program this month, and this spring provided for approximately 100,000 jobs under the Youth Opportunities program. In Chicago alone he opened seven placement centers for Negro youths. All in all, around 200,000 hard-core unemployed Negroes who have never had jobs before in their lives will get jobs this year under the Humphrey program. These are school dropouts, many of them considered unemployable in the past.

Most of Humphrey's work has been done very quietly, with the building trades until For instance, he has fought they became thoroughly irritated, in order to get job opportunities for Negroes. He has badgered C.J. Haggerty, head of the building trades, until Haggerty almost considers the Vice President a pain in the neck. He has also badgered West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy to get young Negroes appointed. And inside the Budget Bureau, he has battled to keep the anti-poverty program from being gutted. These are things that don't get into the papers.

Just a Beginning
He also got 55,000 young Negro boys from the Ghettos into the boy scouts.

Also unknown to the crowd which booed the Vice President was the way he got his Minnesota friend, Sen. Walter Mondale, to introduce a new civil rights bill containing an open housing section. And when the Senate Banking and Currency Committee dragged its feet, the Vice President went to his old friend, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, chairman, and persuaded him to hold hearings. Sparkman was reluctant. It was no help to him with Alabama voters. But he bowed to his old friend, the Vice President, and put the bill through his committee. It resulted in the most important civil rights legislation in recent years.

Mountain Climber Douglas
Justice William O. Douglas, 69 years old and appointed to the Supreme Court 29 years ago at the age of 41, now has a "pacemaker" in his chest to insure a regular heart beat.

Rocky in Uphill Struggle To Overcome Nixon Lead

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
Chicago Daily News Service

TULSA, Okla. (NEA) — There is a very special reason why Gov. Nelson Rockefeller reaped so little benefit from the expected endorsement he gained here from Pennsylvania's Gov. Raymond Shafer.

Rockefeller cannot hope to pull down Richard Nixon's commanding lead simply by consolidating support that is supposed to have been his all along.

The most careful and responsible projections of Republican national convention delegate strength have assigned the New Yorker immense potential in his own state, in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, part of New England, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, and here and there in the West.

Notwithstanding this potential, Nixon is widely conceded, in scrupulous delegate counts compounded of fact and reasonable conjecture, to have more than the necessary 667 votes necessary to nominate at Miami Beach in August.

So no palpitations were felt among the 20 GOP governors who gathered here for a very dull semiannual meeting. There is no more momentum for Rocky in Shafer's announcement than there would be for Nixon if South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond suddenly declared he was going to campaign seven days a week for the former vice president.

Rockefeller will not begin to shake Nixon seriously until there is evidence that some of the latter's huge vote potential in the Midwest and beyond to the Pacific is breaking toward the governor.

For months, all checks of delegate strength have indicated that important portions of the Nixon backlog were soft and, conceivably, could be moved to Rockefeller or some other. But wavering delegates have to have a reason to move — and so far Rockefeller has not given it to them.

His aides assembled in Tulsa talked hopefully of other governors endorsing him soon. They wistfully eye Gov. George Romney of Michigan, whom they backed for so long. They try to keep Maryland's Gov. Spiro Agnew, once their staunch bell-ringer, from leaving the other way.

But here again, even if somehow they won the open support of these men, it would just represent the spelling out of the expected. A candidate hardly gets a jet-assist from that.

Actually, Rockefeller's problem is even more acute than this view of it suggests. Last fall and winter, it was possible to run a count of 12 to 16 governors, conservatively, who might well swing behind his candidacy. Nixon was having trouble finding more than a handful.

Today it is easy to find 14 or more for Nixon. Rockefeller has Shafer, his brother Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Govs. John Chafee of Rhode Island and Harold LeVander of Minnesota. Sympathetic but undeclared are Gov. John Love of Colorado, Nils Boe of South Dakota, David Cargo of New Mexico, Daniel Evans of Washington.

Wavering Nixon supporters, both leadership and rank-and-file types, are not impressed that Rocky has had so much trouble getting the people that are supposed to be his.

Indeed, Rocky's intensive new campaign via television, advertising and street rally to go over the heads of the politicians to the people is evidently as necessary to get or hold what he is already supposed to have among the moderates as it is to take away decisive chunks of Nixon's commanding delegate potential.

From talks both with Rockefeller's aides and with many governors, it is this reporter's judgment that the New Yorker's failure to consolidate this very promising moderate base is a consequence partly of his own numerous mistakes in 1968 and partly of the incredible timidity and ineptitude of his wouldbe supporters. Each side failed the other in important ways worth discussing in a later report.

Pride in America
Editor, The Freeman

Dear Sirs,

Recently I have read several articles about statements made by Americans, the foreign press, and North Vietnamese diplomats regarding the ills of the United States.

In these statements, the Americans have expressed guilt and shame, the foreign press has expressed causes and solutions, and the North Vietnamese have used American guilt feelings to further their own causes of subversion.

As an American, I too feel guilt and shame; not because the deranged among us kill in cold blood; not because fragments of the black and white races pilage and plunder our great land; not because some are exceedingly wealthy and some are exceedingly poor; or even that our youth has lost respect for itself and especially for the generations preceding it. I feel guilt and shame for my apathy and that of my fellow citizens—for we allow these events to take place.

We are so psychologically oriented that we make excuses for every murder; every act of wanton destruction of personal property; every immature genius who is going to change things by his rudeness and disrespect. Today my apathy has changed to anger. I personally want our leaders to put teeth back into our laws; to help us all to know and feel that each of us is one unique human being, endowed with special talents whether he be the president of a large corporation, or the man who keeps our building shining and clean. As God's creatures we are all equal in his eyes. The building porter should be encouraged to aspire toward greater heights, but if the job is the best he can do and he does it well, he should be made to feel he is also a great man.

We invent all manner of excuses for the state of our nation and our world. We are imitating the well known ostrich—pretending all is well and tomorrow will take care of itself. It is time to stop placing the blame on one another and start shouldering our individual responsibilities as citizen of a democracy. Freedom is the greatest gift we have. Let us work together to solve our own problems; let the other nations mind their own business.

Once again, let us have pride in ourselves as a great nation. Let us have pride in our soldiers, maintaining our freedom; let us stand behind our leaders—firm before the other nations of the world. Let us become patriotic and proud once more.

I thank God for our great nation; I thank God that I am an American!

Griffiths, democrat of Michigan, sharply criticized a plan of the office of economic opportunity as one that would "subsidize bastardy."

This week people read about or saw on their television screens the culmination of the "poor people's march" on Washington. These "demonstrators," in fact, ignored the governing bodies in states, counties, cities and towns across the nation from which they could seek redress and relief.

At the same time, however, people wonder why the vast "anti-poverty" programs are not providing aid to the poor and others who really need it. Question have been raised for years as to the efficiency of governmental agencies in helping the deserving needy. The charge is often heard that there is waste running into hundreds of millions of dollars in the handling of "welfare" programs. These criticisms are becoming far more pressing now as publicity is given to the fact that thousands may be suffering from hunger or malnutrition.

Americans have been contributing billions of dollars annually to private institutions for charitable purposes, and they are not averse to having their tax money spent for help to the needy, particularly where children are concerned. Their dissatisfaction today is based on a feeling that funds intended for assistance to those deserving it are being diverted to other ends.

The American people are disturbed about what is "happening" throughout the country, and about the failure of congress and the executive departments to deal effectively with these problems. This will be big issue in the forthcoming campaign.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There are 35,000 computers worth $13 billion and they never stop thinking. They never sleep. They never get tired. They never make a mistake. They have your number.

The two greatest steps ever taken by man were the discovery of nuclear power and the computer. Both occurred in the middle of the 20th century. The first cheapened his life; the second rendered his mind obsolescent. He cannot continue to master them until he learns to master himself.

Two years ago, David Sar-noff wrote: "In just 10 years, the typical electronic data processor has become 10 times smaller, 100 times faster, and a thousand times less expensive to operate."

"A decade ago, our machines were capable of 12 billion computations an hour; today they can do more than twenty trillion. By 1976, they will attain 400 trillion, or about two billion computations per hour for every man, woman and child. The threshold of the computer age has barely been crossed."

Big numbers are dizzying. Jerry Carlson of Farm Management put it another way: "At least a dozen computers have touched your life since you woke up this morning. They're processing your checks, keeping your credit card accounts, figuring the averages on the market, predicting tomorrow's weather and ordering the proper mix for your breakfast sausage."

To reduce a computer to the absurd, it is 1 and 0 carried out to the nth power and processed to remember everything out into it. What can it do? Human mentalities are still trying to measure the limits. Not long ago, a computer designed a more sophisticated computer.

It can do the work of many lawyers—in seconds—looking up to legal precedents. The U.S. Army has one that will stage a full-scale campaign against the enemy if the enemy weapons, men and capabilities are fed into it. The machine will tell the generals who will win. A computer watches over a telephone system, temporarily repairs itself when a part fails, then tells the repairmen what went wrong.

Computers are being programmed for hospitals. They will culture bacteria, analyze them and identify diseases for the pathologist. The U.S. Government has one that will spew out the names of the best men for a job vacancy and will select the men by training, experience and temperament. One railroad leases a computer that tells it where any one of its 36,000 freight cars are at any moment. A computer can tell man how to microfilm every item in the Library of Congress and store all of it in one cubic yard of space.

The computers' opinion of man is merciful. Most of them, when asked about man, stutter over a sheet of paper and say that, if he is properly employed within his limitations, he can be useful. In "The Dynamics of Change," Don Fabun says: "The physical world appears to be a 'yes' or 'no' universe; it can only be reconstructed through a large sampling of yes's and no's." There may be a time limit on how long we will be permitted to say either.

"The computer has become an extension of the human brain," Fabun says, "just as surely as the telescope and microscope became extensions of the eyes, the telephone became the extension of the mouth, and the steam shovel the extension of the arms and hands." Our television comedians make jokes about computers. The day is not far off when the computer will write them.

The human brain can do something the computer cannot. It can do initiative thinking about philosophy and romance and deceit. The mind occupies about a third of one cubic foot and uses 10 watts of energy to get in and out of trouble. The mathematician John von Neumann calculated that, if everything that ever happened to an average 60-year-old person was properly stored in the mind, he would be able to recall 280 quintillion items of information. I have trouble remembering whether von Neumann is spelled with two n's or one.

The advantage of the computer over the brain would appear to be speed and accuracy. The machine can solve 55 billion problems in addition in one second. In a simple problem like 1 plus 1, the human mind requires one-tenth of a second to scan the figures, after which the brain gives the answer to the tongue. "I."

Assuming that the machine hasn't got a better answer.

Drew Pearson Says Those Who Boo Humphrey Have Very Short Memories

Poultry Inspection.

On February 6, 1968, Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson called attention to the need for poultry inspection. They quoted from a hitherto unpublished report by the Agriculture Department on the deplorable conditions in intrastate poultry plants. This started a drive in Congress for a new poultry inspection bill.

On June 13, the House of Representatives passed a poultry inspection bill. It still has to pass the Senate.

WASHINGTON — Most significant and ironic twist to the Solidarity March before the Lincoln Memorial last week took place when Vice President Humphrey was introduced.

Approximately 50,000 people were spread out in the park stretching out like an army of the Philistines as far as or around the Reflecting Pool, the eye could see. In the crowd were Negroes and whites, some of them poor, many too poor to have come to the Capital in sympathy with the Poor People's goals.

As Vice President Humphrey was introduced to that vast crowd there were boos.

Those who booed did not remember another occasion exactly 20 years ago, almost to the month, when the same Hubert Humphrey was also booed. The occasion was the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia in July, 1948. The crowd was smaller than that in Washington last week only because 50,000 people could not get into the convention hall.

And Hubert Humphrey was not as well known as he is today. He was a relatively obscure mayor of a medium-sized city — Minneapolis. Despite his obscurity, however, he got up in the Platform Committee, and later on the floor of the convention, and demanded that the Democratic party adopt an unequivocal plank endorsing civil rights.

Probably no move since the days of slavery was so bitterly received as Humphrey's motion, nor so savagely debated. In the end the East, West and North voted with Humphrey for civil rights. But the South walked out. It formed its own third party under Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and nearly defeated Harry Truman, then running for re-election against Gov. Tom Dewey.

Short Memories

Running with Tom Dewey for Vice President was Gov. Earl Warren of California. If Dewey and Warren had been elected, the history of the Supreme Court today might have been different. But they were not elected; and, as an aftermath, Warren later became Chief Justice where he personally wrote the most important decision of this century — the school integration decree of 1954.

It backed up the courageous civil rights doctrine which Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis had battled for in 1948.

These were some of the things which the crowd at the Lincoln Memorial forgot when they booed the Vice President last week.

They also forgot many other more recent events, or perhaps they never knew about them; because poor people don't always read the newspapers and anyway some of the things Humphrey has been doing were never in the papers. As Vice President, it was his job, until recently, to keep out of the limelight.

But no one man was more responsible for keeping race riots down in the big cities last summer than HHH. He walked the streets of Watts, Calif., the Longdale section of Chicago, the tough district of Cleveland, the Negro jungle of Philadelphia.

This year and last he dedicated over a thousand new parks in the slum areas, launched a huge sports program this month, and this spring provided for approximately 100,000 jobs under the Youth Opportunities program. In Chicago alone he opened seven placement centers for Negro youths. All in all, around 200,000 hard-core unemployed Negroes who have never had jobs before in their lives will get jobs this year under the Humphrey program. These are school dropouts, many of them considered unemployable in the past.

Most of Humphrey's work has been done very quietly, with the building trades until for instance, he has fought they became thoroughly irritated, in order to get job opportunities for Negroes. He has badgered C.J. Haggerty, head of the building trades, until Haggerty almost considers the Vice President a pain in the neck. He has also badgered West Point, Annapolis and the Air Force Academy to get young Negroes appointed. And inside the Budget Bureau, he has battled to keep the anti-poverty program from being gutted. These are things that don't get into the papers.

Just a Beginning

He also got 55,000 young Negro boys from the Ghettos into the boy scouts.

Also unknown to the crowd which booed the Vice President was the way he got his Minnesota friend, Sen. Walter Mondale, to introduce a new civil rights bill containing an open housing section. And when the Senate Banking and Currency Committee dragged its feet, the Vice President went to his old friend, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, chairman, and persuaded him to hold hearings. Sparkman was reluctant. It was no help to him with Alabama voters. But he bowed to his old friend, the Vice President, and put the bill through his committee. It resulted in the most important civil rights legislation in recent years.

Mountain Climber Douglas Justice William O. Douglas, 69 years old and appointed to the Supreme Court 29 years ago at the age of 41, now has a "pacemaker" in his chest to insure a regular heart beat.

Rocky in Uphill Struggle To Overcome Nixon Lead

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent Chicago Daily News Service

TULSA, Okla. (NEA) — There is a very special reason why Gov. Nelson Rockefeller reaped so little benefit from the expected endorsement he gained here from Pennsylvania's Gov. Raymond Shafer.

Rockefeller cannot hope to pull down Richard Nixon's commanding lead simply by consolidating support that is supposed to have been his all along.

The most careful and responsible projections of Republican national convention delegate strength have assigned the New Yorker immense potential in his own state, in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, part of New England, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, and here and there in the West.

Notwithstanding this potential, Nixon is widely conceded, in scrupulous delegate counts compounded of fact and reasonable conjecture, to have more than the necessary 667 votes necessary to nominate at Miami Beach in August.

So no palpitations were felt among the 20 GOP governors who gathered here for a very dull semiannual meeting. There is no more momentum for Rocky in Shafer's announcement than there would be for Nixon if South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond suddenly declared he was going to campaign seven days a week for the former vice president.

Rockefeller will not begin to shake Nixon seriously until there is evidence that some of the latter's huge vote potential in the Midwest and beyond to the Pacific is breaking toward the governor.

For months, all checks of delegate strength have indicated that important portions of the Nixon backlog were soft and, conceivably, could be moved to Rockefeller or some other. But wavering delegates have to have a reason to move — and so far Rockefeller has not given it to them.

His aides assembled in Tulsa talked hopefully of other governors endorsing him soon. They wistfully eye Gov. George Romney of Michigan, whom they backed for so long. They try to keep Maryland's Gov. Spiro Agnew, once their staunch bell-ringer, from leaping the other way.

But here again, even if somehow they won the open support of these men, it would just represent the spelling out of the expected. A candidate hardly gets a jet-assist from that.

Actually, Rockefeller's problem is even more acute than this view of it suggests. Last fall and winter, it was possible to run a count of 12 to 16 governors, conservatively, who might well swing behind his candidacy. Nixon was having trouble finding more than a handful.

Today it is easy to find 14 or more for Nixon. Rockefeller has Shafer, his brother Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Govs. John Chafee of Rhode Island and Harold LeVander of Minnesota. Sympathetic but undeclared are Gov. John Love of Colorado, Nils Boe of South Dakota, David Carg of New Mexico, Daniel Evans of Washington.

Wavering Nixon supporters, both leadership and rank-and-file types, are not impressed that Rocky has had so much trouble getting the people that are supposed to be his. Indeed, Rocky's intensive new campaign via television, advertising and street rally to go over the heads of the politicians to the people is evidently as necessary to get or hold what he is already supposed to have among the moderates as it is to take away decisive chunks of Nixon's commanding delegate potential.

From talks both with Rockefeller's aides and with many governors, it is this reporter's judgment that the New Yorker's failure to consolidate this very promising moderate base is a consequence partly of his own numerous mistakes in 1968 and partly of the incredible timidity and ineptitude of his wouldbe supporters. Each side failed the other in important ways worth discussing in a later report.

Pride in America

Editor, The Freeman

Dear Sirs,

Recently I have read several articles about statements made by Americans, the foreign press, and North Vietnamese diplomats regarding the ills of the United States.

In these statements, the Americans have expressed guilt and shame, the foreign press has expressed causes and solutions, and the North Vietnamese have used American guilt feelings to further their own causes of subversion.

As an American, I too feel guilt and shame; not because the deranged among us kill in cold blood; not because fragments of the black and white races pilage and plunder our great land; not because some are exceedingly wealthy and some are exceedingly poor; or even that our youth has lost respect for itself and especially for the generations preceding it. I feel guilt and shame for my apathy and that of my fellow citizens—for we allow these events to take place.

We are so psychologically oriented that we make excuses for every murder; every act of wanton destruction of personal property; every immature genius who is going to change things by his rudeness and disrespect. Today my apathy has changed to anger. I personally want our leaders to put teeth back into our laws; to help us all to know and feel that each of us is one unique human being, endowed with special talents whether he be the president of a large corporation, or the man who keeps one building shining and clean. As God's creatures we are all equal in his eyes. The building porter should be encouraged to aspire toward greater heights, but if the job is the best he can do and he does it well, he should be made to feel he is also a great man.

We invent all manner of excuses for the state of our nation and our world. We are imitating the well known ostrich—pretending all is well and tomorrow will take care of itself. It is time to stop placing the blame on one another and start shouldering our individual responsibilities as citizen of a democracy. Freedom is the greatest gift we have. Let us work together to solve our own problems.

lems: let the other nations mind their own business.

Once again, let us have pride in ourselves as a great nation. Let us have pride in our soldiers, maintaining our freedom; let us stand behind our leaders firm before the other nations of the world. Let us become patriotic and proud once more.

I thank God for our great nation: I thank God that I am an American!

McCarthy Gains on Nixon, Rockefeller; Rocky Improves Showing Against HHH

PRINCETON, N. J., June 22—In the two turbulent weeks between the California primary and last Tuesday's New York primary, Sen. Eugene McCarthy has made gains at the expense of both Richard Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Rockefeller, while losing ground to McCarthy, has improved his position against Vice President Hubert Humphrey and now runs both Democrats a close race. Nixon, on the other hand, currently trails both Democrats by small margins.

Opinion Rarely So Volatile
Two characteristics of the current period should be preting the latest figures: (1) rarely have political views shown such volatility as during the last two or three months; and (2) seldom have so many candidates been involved in such close contests.

The races have been close enough in fact, that a change of a point or two makes a difference as to who's ahead—a change that can fall well within the margin in sampling.

Support for George Wallace, third party candidate, ranges from 14 per cent to 18 per cent in these trial heat races. His strength has stayed fairly constant over the last two months.

The following question was asked of a sample of 1483 adults. Interviewing was completed on the eve of the New York primary, in which McCarthy made an impressive showing.

Amnesty for Potential Violators Basis for Gun Curb in England

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent

LONDON (NEA)—The best way to get guns out of the wrong hands is to declare an amnesty on weapons and to urge people to turn in their weapons to police with no questions asked.

This, at any rate, is the opinion of Scotland Yard. Britain has held four such amnesties since the war and, as a result, police have netted 211,748 weapons, including flame-throwers, bazookas and machine guns, plus over seven million rounds of ammunition.

The latest weapons amnesty was for the 30-day period ending May 1 and resulted in 25,088 pistols, revolvers, rifles and shotguns being turned in to police.

If allowed to continue gathering dust in Britain's attics, many of these firearms might easily have fallen into the wrong hands, either by theft or by accident.

Scotland Yard officials feel that the United States will be overlooking a bet if, in connection with the anticrime bill just passed by Congress, it does not take similar action to call in lethal weapons in private hands.

While there has been some local initiative in this direction since the assassination of Robert Kennedy—weapons have been surrendered in San Francisco, Chicago, Philadelphia, New York and scattered other cities, either voluntarily or in response to appeals from city hall—the British feel a call-in must be on a national scale to be effective.

War Trophies
Many of the illegally held firearms handed in to police here were war trophies brought home by British soldiers from World War II. Still other were issued by the wartime government to members of the Home Guard during the invasion scare. The amnesty appeal did not relate to antiques which cannot be fired and which are kept for ornamental purposes.

Scotland Yard destroys some of the weapons that are turned in, hands others over to the Ministry of Defense or to museums.

Britain's gun laws are harsh in comparison with those in effect in the United States. Since 1920, it has been unlawful to possess a pistol or a revolver without a police permit, and violations punishable by three years in prison and a fine. Until this year, shotguns were exempt, but starting May 1 they were added to the list of weapons for which a police permit is required.

This was after it was discovered that the number of indictable crimes involving shotguns had quadrupled since 1961.

June 6 Anti-Crime Bill
The anticrime bill passed by the U. S. Congress June 6 bans hand guns, but not shotguns, from interstate mail order sale. The Post Office Department has since moved on its own to plug this loophole by barring from the mails sawed off shotguns and short barreled rifles except to certain specifically authorized recipients, such as policemen. (Other new Post Office regulations require labeling of all firearms shipments and notifying local law enforcement officials of their delivery.)

But police here believe additional legislation will be to significantly reduce gun necessary if America wants violence.

According to the most recent statistics, 220,000 Britons own either a pistol or revolver, while the number who own a rifle or a shotgun is variously estimated at from 500,000 to two or three million. (Until this year, no records were kept of the latter two weapons.)

In comparison, 27 million Americans own guns, and two million weapons are sold in the United States each year. Even allowing for the fact that America's population is more than three times that of the United Kingdom, gun ownership in the United States seem alarming to the average Briton.

So does the comparative crime rate. Guns are responsible for 6,500 murders in the United States each year, as opposed to 30 in Britain.

In Britain, personal protection is not regarded as sufficient reason to be given permission to carry a gun. This is largely because the police themselves have never been armed with anything more lethal than a wooden billy.

Carefully Investigated

Applicants for gun permits are carefully investigated by the police in an effort to determine suitability, and permits are withheld if the police believe the applicant to be of "intemperate habits or unsound mind." Also, the police will visit the applicant's home to satisfy themselves that the gun will be kept in a secure place, such as a locked safe.

Gun permits are good for three years, but they can be revoked at any time, or canceled when they come up for renewal.

As for sporting rifles, membership in a rifle club with an approved firing range is usually accepted as sufficient reason for issuing a rifle permit. However, permission of the Ministry of Defense must be obtained in order to possess lawfully a machine gun or a gas weapon.

There are only about 100 such prohibited weapons in private hands, and most of these are owned by zoos or are used for research purposes.

Britain's rigid gun laws have paid off, in the opinion of Scotland Yard. Thanks to tight control of firearms, the incidence of armed crime is low, and political assassination of the type that has recently plagued America is unknown.

Slight Gains For Gaullists

By PAUL GHALI
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

PARIS — The first public opinion poll on the forthcoming French elections discloses small gains for the Gaullists, for the extreme left-wing unified Socialist Party (PSU), and minor losses for the Communists and Centrists.

For the first round of the March, 1967, general elections, the poll forecast exactly the results of the vote.

The new poll was published yesterday, only four days before first round voting Sunday, though it was conducted on June 13 and 14.

Of the 1,315 people questioned, 60 per cent indicated that they already had made up their minds as to whom they would vote for, and that they would not change before the elections.

The poll revealed that the Gaullists and their partners would come out with a small gain of 1.7 per cent and the PSU with a 1.2 per cent gain. The Communists would lose some 0.5 per cent, the left-wing federation, 1.3 per cent, and the Centrist Progress and Democracy Movement, 1.3 per cent.

What surprised observers was the remarkable stability of French political thinking after a month of the worst public shakeup this generation has experienced.

Dirksen Agrees

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
WASHINGTON — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) has agreed to share the spotlight with other members of the platform committee when the Republican statement of principles is presented to the national convention at Miami Beach.

Dirksen, the platform committee chairman, announced yesterday that a hearing on national defense and security would be held July 22, before regular hearings begin in Florida July 29.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, deputy platform committee chairman, said, after a preliminary meeting of the nine-member temporary committee, that he was satisfied the governor's viewpoint would be adequately represented.

Dirksen disclosed that he would be content with a 10-minute introductory statement when the platform is read to the delegates and the national television audience.

Chafee also will participate along with the following subcommittee chairmen, who will present their sections: Private Enterprise and the Federal Government: Rep. John J. Rhodes (Ariz.). Economic Affairs: Sen. Urban Society: Rep. Charles E. Goodell (N.Y.).

Foreign Policy and National Security: Rep. Glenard P. Lipscomb (Calif.).

Intergovernmental Relations: Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky.

Human Needs: Sen. Hugh Scott (Pa.).
National chairman Ray C. Bliss, trying to keep peace between the congressional and gubernatorial wings of the party, attended yesterday's session of the temporary committee.

Dirksen Agrees

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
WASHINGTON—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) has agreed to share the spotlight with other members of the platform committee when the Republican statement of principles is presented to the national convention at Miami Beach.

Dirksen, the platform committee chairman, announced yesterday that a hearing on national defense and security would be held July 22, before regular hearings begin in Florida July 29.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, deputy platform committee chairman, said, after a preliminary meeting of the nine-member temporary committee, that he was satisfied the governor's viewpoint would be adequately represented.

Dirksen disclosed that he would be content with a 10-minute introductory statement when the platform is read to the delegates and the national television audience.

Chafee also will participate along with the following subcommittee chairman, who will present their sections: Private Enterprise and the Federal Government: Rep. John J. Rhodes (Ariz.). Economic Affairs: Sen. Urban Society: Rep. Charles E. Goodell (N.Y.).

Foreign Policy and National Security: Rep. Glenard P. Lipscomb (Calif.). Intergovernmental Relations: Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky.

Agriculture and Natural Resources: Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska.

Human Needs: Sen. Hugh Scott (Pa.)

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

European Staff Correspondent

LONDON (NEA)—The best way to get guns out of the wrong hands is to declare an amnesty on weapons and to urge people to turn in their weapons to police with no questions asked.

This, at any rate, is the opinion of Scotland Yard. Britain has held four such amnesties since the war and, as a result, police have netted 21,748 weapons, including flame-throwers, bazookas and machine guns, plus over seven million rounds of ammunition.

The latest weapons amnesty was for the 30-day period ending May 1 and resulted in 25,088 pistols, revolvers, rifles and shotguns being turned in to police.

If allowed to continue gathering dust in Britain's attics, many of these firearms might easily have fallen into the wrong hands, either by theft or by accident.

Scotland Yard officials feel that the United States will be overlooking a bet if, in connection with the anticrime bill just passed by Congress, it does not take similar action to call in lethal weapons in private hands.

While there has been some local initiative in this direction since the assassination of Robert Kennedy—weapons have been surrendered in San Francisco, Chicago, Philadelphia, New York and scattered other cities, either voluntarily or in response to appeals from city hall—the British feel a call-in must be on a national scale to be effective.

War Trophies

Many of the illegally held firearms handed in to police here were war trophies brought home by British soldiers from World War II. Still other were issued by the wartime government to members of the Home Guard during the invasion scare. The amnesty appeal did not relate to antiques which cannot be fired and which are kept for ornamental purposes.

Scotland Yard destroys some of the weapons that are turned in, hands others over to the Ministry of Defense or to museums.

Britain's gun laws are harsh in comparison with those in effect in the United States. Since 1920, it has been unlawful to possess a pistol or a revolver without a police permit, and violations punishable by three years in prison and a fine. Until this year, shotguns were exempt, but starting May 1 they were added to the list of weapons for which a police permit is required.

This was after it was discovered that the number of indictable crimes involving shotguns had quadrupled since 1961.

June 6 Anti-Crime Bill

The anticrime bill passed by the U. S. Congress June 6 bans hand guns, but not shotguns, from interstate mail order sale. The Post Office Department has since moved on its own to plug this loophole by barring from the mails sawed off shotguns and short barreled rifles except to certain specifically authorized recipients, such as policemen. (Other new Post Office regulations require labeling of all firearms shipments and notifying local law enforcement officials of their delivery.)

But police here believe additional legislation will be to significantly reduce gun necessary if America wants violence.

According to the most recent statistics, 220,000 Britons own either a pistol or revolver, while the number who own a rifle or a shotgun is variously estimated at from 500,000 to two or three million. (Until this year, no records were kept of the latter two weapons.)

In comparison, 27 million Americans own guns, and two million weapons are sold in the United States each year. Even allowing for the fact that America's population is more than three times that of the United Kingdom, gun ownership in the United States seem alarming to the average Briton.

So does the comparative crime rate. Guns are responsible for 6,500 murders in the United States each year, as opposed to 30 in Britain.

In Britain, personal protection is not regarded as sufficient reason to be given permission to carry a gun. This is largely because the police themselves have never been armed with anything more lethal than a wooden billy.

Carefully Investigated

Applicants for gun permits are carefully investigated by the police in an effort to determine suitability, and permits are withheld if the police believe the applicant to be of "intemperate habits or unsound mind." Also, the police will visit the applicant's home to satisfy themselves that the gun will be kept in a secure place, such as a locked safe.

Gun permits are good for three years, but they can be revoked at any time, or canceled when they come up for renewal.

As for sporting rifles, membership in a rifle club with an approved firing range is usually accepted as sufficient reason for issuing a rifle permit. However, permission of the Ministry of Defense must be obtained in order to possess lawfully a machine gun or a gas weapon.

There are only about 100 such prohibited weapons in private hands, and most of these are owned by zoos or are used for research purposes.

Britain's rigid gun laws have paid off, in the opinion of Scotland Yard. Thanks to tight control of firearms, the incidence of armed crime is low, and political assassination of the type that has recently plagued America is unknown. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Slight Gains For Gaullists

By PAUL GHALI

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service
PARIS — The first public opinion poll on the forthcoming French elections discloses small gains for the Gaullists, for the extreme left-wing unified Socialist Party (PSU), and minor losses for the Communists and Centrists.

For the first round of the March, 1967, general elections, the poll forecast exactly the results of the vote.

The new poll was published yesterday, only four days before first round voting Sunday, though it was conducted on June 13 and 14.

Of the 1,315 people questioned, 60 per cent indicated that they already had made up their minds as to whom they would vote for, and that they would not change before the elections.

The poll revealed that the Gaullists and their partners would come out with a small gain of 1.7 per cent and the PSU with a 1.2 per cent gain. The Communists would lose some 0.5 per cent, the left-wing federation, 1.3 per cent, and the Centrist Progress and Democracy Movement, 1.3 per cent.

What surprised observers was the remarkable stability of French political thinking after a month of the worst public shakeup this generation has experienced.

Name Five Local Attorneys To District Grievance Board

Five Kingston attorneys—Andrew Cook Jr., John L. Larkin, Howard C. St. John, Arthur Ewig Jr., and George Beck—have been appointed to the newly instituted Third District subcommittee and prosecuting panel for the processing of grievance complaints against lawyers. Justice James Gibson announced recently.

Gibson, the Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division, Third Department is the originator of the plan whereby three 15-member subcommittees of the State Bar Association's Grievance Committee will meet to hear and rule on complaints made against the lawyers of the 28-county Third Judicial Department.

The plan will affect all of the counties in the 28th District, including Ulster, Greene, and Sullivan. Persons serving on the subcommittees will be drawn from members of the local County Bar Association, in order to continue the policy of disciplinary supervision at the county level. Recommendations for membership on the committee will be received from the County Bar Associations and the Executive Committee of the State Bar.

Hearing panels consisting of three members will be drawn from these subcommittees. The panels will hear testimony on complaints referred to them by the State Association's Grievance Committee and will have three options: either to dismiss the charges, admonish the attorney, or refer the case back to the Grievance Committee with recommendations for prosecution before the Appellate Division. The panel's decision will in all cases be reviewed by the Grievance Committee.

In addition, the State Association will make available to the court a panel of attorneys to prosecute complaints before the Appellate Division.

On March 8 of this year, Gibson testified in New York City before the Special Committee on Evaluation of Disciplinary Enforcement of the American Bar Association, the assistance of the New York State Bar Association in implementing his proposal. The plan was adopted following a lengthy study by the State Bar's Committee on Grievances. Justice Gibson emphasized that there would be no change in the present statutory system. The announcement for the proposed plan was made by Justice Gibson at a luncheon sponsored by the State Bar in Albany.

Hint for Underwater Swimmers, Deep Breathing Is Very Harmful

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Doing deep breathing exercises before swimming in an attempt to increase your underwater endurance can instead be increasing the chances that you will drown.

Deep breathing before jumping in can cause you to black out under water.

Dr. James R. Webster Jr., Northwestern University associate in medicine, explains in "Medical Times" what can happen:

"By exhaling deeply, you will replace much of the carbon dioxide normally trapped in your lungs with fresh air. The normal carbon dioxide concentration in your blood will drop. The oxygen content will rise—slightly—a condition known as hyperventilation.

"Because it is excess carbon dioxide in the blood that triggers increased blood flow, oxygen-carrying blood may not flow to your brain in the volume it should.

"Low carbon dioxide level in the blood may also make you think all is well, when to provide still more needed oxygen you should be gasping for air."

"Your brain may not get the oxygen it needs to keep functioning."

"You may suddenly become unconscious under water, without warning, thus being unable to surface for air."

About 6,800 persons drowned in the United States during 1967, according to the National Safety Council.

"The length of time a drowning victim has been in the water should not prevent rescuers from trying to revive him," said Dr. Webster, "because some people can be revived after being under water longer than others."

In all cases, the physician said, the victim should be rushed to a hospital. Even if the water is drained from his lungs, and he has apparently revived, his injured lungs may go on filling up with internal fluids from other parts of his body.

Husband-Wife Murder-Suicide Told in Buffalo

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Felicita Velez, 38, was stabbed to death on a city street Saturday by her estranged husband, who then stabbed himself in a suicide attempt, police said.

Police said Wilson Velez, 39, used an oversized ice pick to stab his wife at least six times in the chest and abdomen while her two children looked on. He tried to commit suicide by stabbing himself in the chest and abdomen at least 18 times, police reported.

He was taken to Emergency Hospital where on Sunday his condition was listed as poor. Police said the couple had been separated for about two years. Two witnesses to the slaying said Mrs. Wilson was walking along the street to see her two children who were playing in a park when a car driven by her husband pulled along.

She started to run, but was stopped in a nearby driveway and stabbed, they said.

Her two sons, one 11 and the other 9, tried to pull her attacker off her, the witnesses said, but were brushed aside.

Police summoned to the scene said they found Mrs. Velez lying on the sidewalk and her husband lying a few feet away.

They reported he had already wounded himself, and plunged the ice pick into his abdomen several more times before they were able to wrest the weapon from him.

The slaying took place on Johnson Park.

Mrs. Velez lived at 48 10th St. Her husband lives at 43 10th St.

Milk Prices Due for Hike

Because unforeseen bad weather and devastating insect damage have added to the woes of debt-plagued dairymen, Eastern Milk Producers Association is asking that Class I milk prices be increased up to 50 cents per cwt. in the New York, New Jersey marketing area, and 35 cents per cwt. in New England.

Route drivers and other persons associated with the dairy industry have been granted recent pay raises which will likely increase the price of milk to consumers.

Presenting a special resolution the Eastern board of directors is asking Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to call above the levels established for the July 1, 1968-April 1, 1969 period in New York-New Jersey, and 5 per cent above April 1, 1968 prices in the Delaware Valley. Conjoining federal milk marketing districts, and Mass. R. I. N. H. It was pointed out by the Eastern board that recent Class I price increases instituted by the U. S. Department of Agriculture partially alleviate the farmer's cost-price squeeze in this time of inflation. However, the group pointed out, they do not by any means permit the farmer to keep pace with other income earning segments of the American economy.

Nab Dutchess Men On Bogus Bill Charges

Accused of possessing counterfeit $10 bills, Thomas James Odak, 21, of Salisbury Road, Rhinebeck, son of Town of Milan Supervisor Thomas J. Odak, and Owen Scott Kiniry, 20, of 86 East Market Street, Rhinebeck, were arrested Saturday by State Police BCI investigators.

The arrests at the Kiniry home resulted from an investigation conducted by Rhinebeck BCI officers and U. S. Secret agents.

According to the investigators the bills, all in denominations of $10 totaled more than $1,000.

City Collects 93 P. C. Taxes; Needs $215,143

City tax collections are more than 93 per cent completed according to Treasurer Stan J. Petro, in a Freeman interview today.

Petro noted that the total amount to be raised by taxation for 1968 was $3,493,530 and of that amount, there remains $215,143 to be collected.

The city's biggest tax collection month this year was March when $2,059,738 was realized by taxpayers taking advantage of the one half of one per cent reduction in their total taxes if they paid in full before March 26.

Heavy penalties are now in effect for those taxpayers who are delinquent according to Petro. As of June 22, there is a five per cent penalty and a one-dollar fee for the late notice for all delinquent taxpayers. In addition, a charge of one half of one per cent for each month that taxes remain unpaid will be levied.

In conclusion, Petro expressed appreciation to those taxpayers who paid their taxes on time. Delinquent taxpayers may pay their taxes either by mail or at the city treasurer's office, city hall, from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Investigators said "they were beautifully made."

Authorities continued the investigation in an effort to uncover the source of the bogus bills.

Both defendants were scheduled for arraignment before U. S. Commissioner John B. Garrity in Poughkeepsie.

Last week Liberty police and Sullivan county authorities warned residents and business people in those areas to be on the lookout for counterfeit money, particularly $5, $10 and $20 bills. Liberty Police Chief Dwight Startup said "the county is being flooded with these counterfeit bills and the situation is getting worse."

Chief Startup said the $10 and $20 counterfeit bills have the same serial numbers on them. The numbers are B 15441422A. Startup said the $10 bogus bills are of "excellent quality and could almost fool the experts."

City Police Give Summonses

Kingston city police experienced a busy weekend issuing summonses to motorists for a variety of violations.

Walter H. Schuman, 28, of Box 261 John Street, West Hurley, was cited for speeding, driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated and passing a stop sign. It was reported he refused to submit to a blood test required by law. He was booked at 3:01 a. m. today.

Vincent F. Stock, 17, of 77 Harding Avenue, was charged with passing a flashing red light, speeding and driving a car after dark with a junior operator's license.

Amos J. MacCreary Jr., 33, of 34 West O'Reilly Street, was summoned on charges of passing a stop sign and failure to stop for a flashing red traffic light.

Richard T. Neal, 30, of 108 Gage Street, was booked for passing a flashing red light and operating a car with insufficient lights.

All summonses are returnable before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

Q—You've mentioned four of two shares of your Western Union common for one of the new $3.00 convertible pfd. to be issued by Computer Sciences. Your conversion rights on WU's preferred issued would be "protected." However, your desire to accept WU profits seems a good move, releasing capital that could readily be reinvested to yield better than 5 per cent compared with your current 4 per cent average on Western Union holdings.

Q—Now 80 years of age, I depend for some income on Western Union common and a few shares of its convertible preferreds. I'd like to take my profits and not go into the merger with Computer Sciences. What is your opinion of this merger?—H. W.

A—It is obvious that Western Union has technical facilities and operational experience that make it a desirable merger mate for Computer Sciences or any other communications-science-oriented partner. Directors of both companies have agreed to preliminary terms and now face several hurdles which could delay or prevent final union.

Stockholders must vote their consent; government regulatory agencies must be satisfied on various points of law, and, finally, the Internal Revenue Service must rule on whether this is a tax-free transaction for Western Union stockholders.

Water Treatment Stocks For Long-Term Holding

Q—You've mentioned four stocks—smaller than GE and Westinghouse—whose chief interests are desalting water and treating polluted waters. Please list these for me.—T. T.

A—Two outstanding companies in desalination are Aqua-Chem and Ionics and two in water treatment are Betz Laboratories and Nalco. As might be expected, each carries a relatively high price-earnings multiple—between 40 and 50—and, excepting Ionics, each trades close to its all-time high. Ionics has been depressed by declining demand in Middle East markets which temporarily reduced 1967 earnings. Any one of the four could work out well as a long-term growth investment.

Q—Now 80 years of age, I depend for some income on Western Union common and a few shares of its convertible preferreds. I'd like to take my profits and not go into the merger with Computer Sciences. What is your opinion of this merger?—H. W.

Humphrey Must Walk Tightrope

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey must walk a tightrope in his campaign for the presidency.

He was to avoid offending President Johnson, who started teaching him to be a more effective senator 15 years ago and tapped him for the vice presidency in 1964. But he also would like to re-establish himself as a hero to the Democratic liberals, who never showed much affection for Johnson except during the 1964 campaign.

Humphrey showed a mastery for wirewalking in his first major speech since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who had been his chief rival for the presidential nomination. Both Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy now will be courting Kennedy backers.

Plan For Cities

Humphrey said no one needed to repudiate his family to establish his own identity. He did go beyond any Johnson administration programs by renewing his "Marshall plan for the cities" proposal and calling for tougher gun control legislation.

Johnson would be offended by any Humphrey speeches repudiating policies of his administration. But he probably would be more tolerant than many of his critics believe if the vice president staked out some new positions of his own.

As President, Johnson found his own domestic programs in trouble because of budget problems growing out of the war in Vietnam.

As a campaigner, Humphrey is in the same position. In this respect, his problem is shared to an extent by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, underdog candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

GOP Term

Humphrey acknowledges he is unhappy about budget cuts accepted by the administration as the price for passage of its tax bill. But he says the government is faced with a staggering deficit and he uses that good Republican term "fiscal responsibility" to justify the combination tax increase and budget cut.

In a speech on urban problems two months ago, Rockefeller recommended the federal government put an additional $10 billion a year into programs for the cities. In a statement last week, he expressed concern about inflation and called for budget cuts in items such as "deferrable public works" projects.

Humphrey and Rockefeller can only hope that the Vietnam negotiations will bring peace and free money now going into military spending for domestic programs.

McCarthy has been preaching that line since he began his campaign last fall. Unlike Humphrey, McCarthy can shout "try harder" if the Paris talks fail to show signs of progress.

Denise Darcel Is Arrested For Shoplifting in Miami

By BOB M. GASSAWAY
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bosomy French actress Denise Darcel, with money in her purse and a show date waiting, was charged with shoplifting $35 worth of underwear Sunday. She called it "a bum rap."

Miss Darcel, who rose to film stardom in the late 1940s, was arrested outside a downtown Miami department store by a store detective who said "she had three shopping bags full of merchandise."

Later, in jail, Miss Darcel said, "They can't get away with treating me like a common criminal."

"She had already purchased several articles and paid for them," Police Lt. Paul Oboz said. "And she was picking up other things she wanted. She claimed there was no sales lady at the time and she intended to pay for it later. She claims she went out to see if a bus was coming by. That's when she was arrested by the store detective."

Police said the goods — valued at $35.08 — in Miss Darcel's shopping bags included hose, slippers, a comb and mirror, hairpins, a few pair of panties, a nightgown and one bra — size 40.

Miss Darcel, petite and trim at 43, had her blonde hair tucked under a scarf when jailed. She wore a blouse with fruit prints, slacks and large sunglasses. She posted $500 bond and was released from jail about three hours after her arrest. She must appear in Municipal Court next Friday on petty larceny charges.

The Paris-born actress came to Hollywood in 1947 to film "To the Victor." She followed with a success in "Battleground" opposite Van Johnson and the late John Hodiak.

A counterattack with shots and rocks brought down two birds and there have been no attacks for several nights.

Legion Drive Jaycees Begin 13th Year For Honor Roll Funds

The campaign to collect funds to add names of local veterans of the Vietnam Conflict to the honor roll in Saugerties Town Hall is moving slowly. Peter M. Williams said today.

The prominent veteran and former County American Legion commander is conducting the drive for Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion of Saugerties. The honor roll in book form was originally sponsored by the Legion Post and installed in the vestibule of the Town Hall on Main Street. The honor roll was dedicated on Nov. 11, 1959 and contains the names of all local veterans.

An inscription on the memorial reads: Recorded in honor of those from Saugerties Township who served their country in World War I and II and the Korean Conflict. The honor roll was purchased with more than $1,600 raised by public subscription as a permanent record of all who served from Saugerties.

The cost of each page with names in bar relief is $300. Williams is currently compiling names to be inscribed.

At the end of hostilities in Vietnam the list will be forwarded to the engraver and the bronze pages will be prepared and dedicated at suitable ceremonies.

Donations may be mailed to Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, John Street, Saugerties, or to Peter M. Williams, P.O. Box 6, Saugerties, or left at Williams' office, 259 Main Street.

These people can only be saved if a permanent cure is discovered through research," Mrs. Martin said.

Legion Drive Jaycees Begin 13th Year For Honor Roll Funds

The campaign to collect funds to add names of local veterans of the Vietnam Conflict to the bronze honor roll in Saugerties Town Hall is moving slowly, Peter M. Williams said today.

The prominent veteran and former County American Legion commander is conducting the drive for Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, American Legion of Saugerties. The honor roll in book form was originally sponsored by the Legion Post and installed in the vestibule of the Town Hall on Main Street. The honor roll was dedicated on Nov. 11, 1959 and contains the names of all local veterans.

An inscription on the memorial reads: Recorded in honor of those from Saugerties Township who served their country in World War I and II and the Korean Conflict. The honor roll was purchased with more than $1,600 raised by public subscription as a permanent record of all who served from Saugerties.

The cost of each page with names in bar relief is $300. Williams is currently compiling names to be inscribed.

At the end of hostilities in Vietnam the list will be forwarded to the engraver and the bronze pages will be prepared and dedicated at suitable ceremonies.

Donations may be mailed to Lamouree-Hackett Post 72, John Street, Saugerties, or to Peter M. Williams, P.O. Box 6, Saugerties, or left at Williams' office, 259 Main Street.

Cancer Crusade Lagging $1,100

The Cancer Crusade in the Town of Saugerties is lagging out to Cancer Crusade, Saugerties by some $1,100, Mrs. Terrence Martin said this week.

Mrs. Martin, town drive chairman said to date only $3,400 had been received in the drive against a town goal of $4,500. She said the drive is more than $100 short in the business and professional group headed by her husband, Terrence Martin, who was drive chairman last year.

She said that some businesses gave very generously this year, but the trouble is with those who were unable to give anything toward the drive. The funds are very badly needed to bring about a break-through in research to find a cure for cancer.

Those who have not given to the crusade this year may still do so by mailing their checks to Mrs. Terrence Martin, 20 Pros-

Hats on for the Fashion Scene

About a decade ago the beauty industry mesmerized women into believing they looked like walking dreams when their hair was teased into a towering mess. And this myth relegated the millinery industry to fashion limbo. Who could perch a hat atop a bird's nest? Even the most chic women didn't dare crush their hairdos.

I recall a reception at the French embassy in Washington about eight years ago when a lady of the press was wearing a hat that was a HAT — all pink tulle and flowers — asked Nicole Alphonse whether she preferred small or big chapeaux. (She really did say "chapeaux.")

"Hats?" said Mme. Alphonse. "I do not wear hats. When coiffures change so that I can wear one without ruining my hair I will be delighted. But right now it's impossible."

Hairdos did change, but women had become accustomed to hairlessness. And not until now when the total look is so important to the fashion conscious has the millinery business taken a giant step back into fashion prominence.

Hats are definitely back on top in the fashion scene. And young girls who never experienced the lift a perky hat can give are now experiencing the delight their mothers enjoyed years ago.

Frank Olive, who designs hats that make you feel young, and pretty or young and sexy, talked with me about why hats are again in big demand.

"Today's woman," he said, "has a closet full of basic wardrobes. Now she buys things that will give her pleasure. To achieve the total look she buys all the appropriate gimmicks needed and a hat is one of those."

Olive believes that a girl goes into a store today and buys a hat because emotionally she wants it.

"Young women in their 20's," he said, "have never known what it is to be pretty, to wear frills and soft colors. They have had tough chic ever since they have been old enough to care about fashion, you know, Harper's diamond eyebrows, that sort of thing. They're ready to look pretty."

He talked of seeing girls come into a store in the new soft look, saying they browsed around wearing $22 raffish dresses, found a hat that was the perfect complement and bought it on the spot — kids who until now thought anything other than hair on the head was old hat. And it's not just the young people who have fallen victim to the hat syndrome.

"If a hat has character," Olive maintains, "it can make a woman forget that SHE has character lines in her face. I even makes her walk taller." He believes that too many people in the industry are not on top of what's going on in the fashion world today. Even models now wear berets, yet Olive says, some hat firms still believe it's hairdos that are "lousing up" hats.

A dozen years ago, Olive pointed out, the world didn't contend with now. And whether or not anyone is concerned, he still is a part of what's going on. A designer who isn't part of the scene falls by the wayside. "A designer," he said, "must be as mobile as the front page of a newspaper."

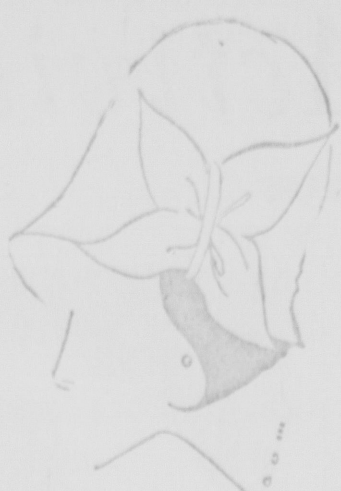

What some designers just don't understand, Olive feels, is that Miss Tennessee is Miss Universe today. Provincialism is out.

Olive is largely responsible for the popularity of the derby for women. He went to London for ideas and saw the young kids in Chelsea having fun wearing their father's derbies. He put the derby in his line and it is still his biggest seller here.

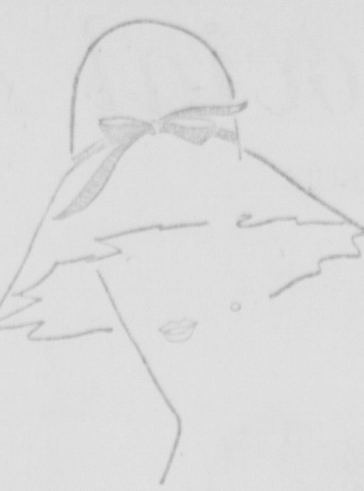

"Costumes are a big part of today's dress — velvet pants, ruffs — clothes that are amusing. Everything you wear should relate to your mood. In a small way this offers some compensation in times when we don't live by the philosophy of saving. We exploit and destroy."

"Fashion doesn't mean shoes, hats, skirts. Fashion means change — the tempo of the times."

And today's change of tempo has certainly put the hat back on top where it belongs.

To Settle Hemline Debate, 'Ignore It'

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York fashion designers seem to feel that the way to settle the great debate on course of the hemline is to ignore it. Maybe it'll go away.

Or, as in the case of Jacques Tiffau, just dismiss it with the comment, "Skirt length doesn't mean a damn."

But nobody on Seventh Avenue, the heart of New York's ready-to-wear industry, is chattering about one skirt length. The message is, the choice is up to you, from above the knee—the predominant day-time length still—to anywhere in between, with the midis and the maxis showing throughout collections, particularly in coats and capes.

The Long and Short

The long and short of it is perhaps best summed up by designer Tiffau's statement to buyers during the firm's (Tiffau & Burch) shows last week.

"It's not how long you make it, it's how you make it long," he proclaimed in a takeoff on a cigarette commercial, then went ahead to show above-knee dresses for day topped with maxis, or just below mid-calf coats. The dresses, sleeveless and slim cut, came in either wools, sueded or kids, their long coats in assorted wools.

Tiffau's firm is one of the most then 110 individual designers or manufacturers participating in the next several days of fall and winter fashion shows for visiting reporters. By the time the shows end June 28, the reporters will have seen a total picture of the new in all phases of ready-to-wear.

Boots, even embroidered to match short formals, showed in major fall collections.

Favorite Colors

Camel and gray is a favorite color pairing throughout fall collections. Donald Brooks uses it in suits, coat-dress combinations, or in coat dresses. And the all gray comes on strongly with firms like Chester Weinberg's.

The leather industry must be turning a happy tune. There's leather for trim, leather to make entire dresses for casual daytime wear. And people like Tiffau pair suede tops in brilliant colors with black or beveled satin for floor length evening dresses.

The designer putting the label on the outside of the garment continues. Weinberg showed simple, basic suits or dresses in toned-down shades with wide, back-flowing scarves in brilliant hues. The print spelled out: "CHESTER" in bold letters.

UCCG Graduates Win Scholarships

Two graduates of Ulster County Community College have been awarded scholarships by the Faculty Wives Club. They are Miss Alice Valentine, of RD 7, Box 123-B, Kingston, and Miss Linda Roe, 84 Hoffman Street, Kingston.

Let's Have a Turkey Barbecue

Small-to-medium-size birds, 6 to 12 pounds, and boneless turkey roasts, 2½ to 3½ pounds, are just the right size to cook whole on the rotisserie.

For grilled or rotisserie turkey, start the fire about 30 to 40 minutes before cooking to get an even bed of glowing coals. Space the coal apart so that no two touch, for the right degree of heat. When a grey ash covers the coals, the fire is ready.

For grilled turkey, place the grill about 6 to 8 inches above the coals so the turkey will cook through without over-browning. Cook cut-up turkey about 1½ hours, turning occasionally and basting with barbecue sauce, if desired. Leg pieces require about 15 minutes less cooking time than the breast. Add the wings and back pieces about one-half hour after the more meaty pieces. Turkey is done when there is no pink near the bone.

For rotisserie turkey, arrange the hot coals at the back of the fire box. Place a foil drip pan in front of the coals. When spit-roasting turkey, make sure the juices run into the drip pan and not into the fire. Too much juice can put the fire out beneath the turkey. When using a barbecue sauce, brush it on only during the last 20 minutes of cooking. The following timetable is an approximate guide for cooking time on the rotisserie:

Whole turkey, ready-to-cook 6 to 8 pounds, two and a half to three hours; 8 to 12 pounds, three to four and a half hours; 12 to 13 pounds, four to five hours; Boneless turkey roast, three to five ready-to-cook pounds, two to two and a half hours.

Timetables are only a guide to total cooking time. A cool day or strong wind lengthens barbecue time; you might have to add 30 to 45 minutes. Turkey is done when a meat thermometer used in the thickest part of the breast or inside of thigh muscle of whole turkey registers 185 degrees F., or 170 degrees to 175 degrees F., in boneless turkey roast.

AT THE MARKETS

Meats—Shoppers may soon find higher prices for pork at retail food stores. Wholesale prices have advanced, the result of reducing hog marketings by farmers. Supplies of red meat decline during summer, and often prices rise some. The gain in retail meat prices is not expected to be very great and should be temporary with prices falling some in late summer and fall.

Poultry Products—Continued large storage stocks of turkeys and seasonally expanded broiler marketings will bring ample supplies of poultry to retail meat counters. Broiler marketings for the rest of June and early July will about match last year's large supplies. About mid-July broiler marketings will increase above the level of a year earlier.

Fishery Products—Liberal receipts of fishery products are reported by the Fulton Fish Market. Fluke is abundant along with other members of the flounder family—yellow tails, grey sole, and black backs. Other plentiful fish include cod, bluefish, butter fish, halibut, mackerel, porgies, striped bass, whiting, salmon and swordfish. The leading shellfish items include hard and soft clams, hard and soft crabs, mussels, shrimp, and lobsters.

Hats on for the Fashion Scene

About a decade ago the beauty industry mesmerized women into believing they looked like walking dreams when their hair was teased into a towering mess. And this myth relegated the millinery industry to fashion limbo. Who could perch a hat atop a bird's nest? Even the most chic women didn't dare crush their hairdos.

I recall a reception at the French embassy in Washington about eight years ago when a lady of the press was wearing a hat that was a HAT — all pink tulle and flowers — asked Nicole Alphonse whether she preferred small or big chapeaux. (She really did say "chapeaux.")

"Hats?" said Mme. Alphonse. "I do not wear hats. When customs change so that I can wear one without running my hair I will be delighted. But right now it's impossible."

Hairdos did change, but women had become accustomed to hatlessness. And not until now, when the total look is so important to the fashion-conscious, has the millinery business taken a giant step back into fashion prominence.

Hats are definitely back on top in the fashion scene. And young girls who never experienced the lift a perky hat can give are now experiencing the delight their mothers enjoyed years ago.

Frank Olive, who designs hats that make you feel young and pretty or young and witty, talked with me about why hats are again in big demand.

"Today's woman," he said, "has a closet full of basic wardrobes. Now she buys things that will give her pleasure. To achieve the total look she buys all the appropriate gimmicks needed and a hat is one of those."

Olive believes that a girl goes into a store today and buys a hat because emotionally she wants it.

"Young women in their 20's," he said, "have never known what it is to be pretty, to wear frills and soft colors. They have had tough chic ever since they have been old enough to care about fashion, you know, Harper's diamond eyebrows, that sort of thing. They're ready to look pretty."

He talked of seeing girls come into a store in the new soft look, saying they wanted around wearing $22 ruffled dresses, found a hat that was the perfect complement and bought it on the spot — kids who until now thought anything other than hair on the head was old hat. And it's not just the young people who have fallen victim to the hat syndrome.

"If a hat has character," Olive maintains, "it can make a woman forget that SHE has character lines in her face. It

To Settle Hemline Debate, 'Ignore It'

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—New York fashion designers seem to feel the way to settle the great debate on course of the hemline is to ignore it. Maybe it'll go away.

Or, as in the case of Jacques Tiffenu, just dismiss it with the comment, "Shirt length doesn't mean a damn."

But nobody on Seventh Avenue, the heart of New York's ready-to-wear industry, is chattering about one shirt length. The message is, the choice is up to you, from above the knee—the predominant daytime length still—in anywhere in between, with the middle and the maxis showing throughout collections, particularly in coats and capes.

The Long and Short

The long and short of it is perhaps best summed up by designer Tiffenu's statement to buyers during the firm's CTU

Let's Have a Turkey Barbecue

Small-to-medium-size birds, 6 to 12 pounds, and boneless turkey roasts, 2½ to 3½ pounds, are just the right size to cook whole on the rotisserie.

For grilled or rotisserie turkey, start the fire about 30 to 40 minutes before cooking to get an even bed of glowing coals. Space the coal apart so that no two touch, for the right degree of heat. When a grey ash covers the coals, the fire is ready.

For grilled turkey, place the grill about 6 to 8 inches above the coals so the turkey will cook through without over-browning. Cook cut-up turkey about 1½ hours, turning occasionally and basting with barbecue sauce. If desired, let pieces require about 15 minutes less cooking time than the breast. Add the wings and back pieces about one-half hour after the more meaty pieces. Turkey is done when there is no pink near the bone.

For rotisserie turkey, arrange the hot coals at the back of the fire box. Place a foil drip pan in front of the coals. When the juices run into the drip pan and not into the fire. Too much juice can put the fire out beneath the turkey. When using a barbecue sauce, brush it on only during the last 30 minutes of cooking. The following timetable is an approximate guide for cooking time on the rotisserie.

Whole turkey, ready-to-cook 6 to 8 pounds, two and a half to three hours; 8 to 12 pounds, three to four and a half hours; 12 to 13 pounds, four to five hours; Boneless turkey roast, three to five ready-to-cook pounds, two to two and a half hours.

Timetables are only a guide to total cooking time. A cool day or strong wind lengthens barbecue time; you might have to add 30 to 45 minutes. Turkey is done when a meat thermometer used in the thickest part of the breast or inside of thigh muscle of whole turkey registers 185 degrees F., or 170 degrees to 175 degrees F., in boneless turkey roast.

AT THE MARKETS

Meats—Shoppers may soon find higher prices for pork at retail food stores. Wholesale prices have advanced, the result of reducing hog marketings by farmers. Supplies of red meat decline during summer and often prices rise some. The gain in retail meat prices is not expected to be very great and should be temporary, with prices falling some in late summer and fall.

Poultry Products — Continued large storage stocks of turkeys and seasonally expanded broiler marketings will bring ample supplies of poultry to retail meat counters. Broiler marketings for the rest of June and early July will about match last year's large supplies. About mid-July broiler marketings will increase above the level of a year earlier.

Fishery Products — Liberal receipts of fishery products are reported by the Fulton Fish Market. Fluke is abundant along with other members of the flounder family — yellow tails, grey sole, and blackbacks. Other plentiful fish include cod, bluefish, butter fish, halibut, mackerel, porgies, striped bass, whiting, salmon, and swordfish. The leading shellfish items include hard and soft clams, hard and soft crabs, mussels, shrimp, and lobsters.

Parents Without Partners Holds Social Night at Monticello

Parents Without Partners members and guests enjoyed a social evening at Esther Manor in Monticello on Saturday, June 15.

Festivities started with a cocktail party at the pool and a smorgasbord in the dining room. Late evening entertainment included dancing and two night club shows.

Any single parent interested in joining the local chapter can write PWP, Catskill Mt. Chapter No. 288, Greenfield Park.

Robert Williams, Sullivan County District Attorney, was speaker at the monthly PWP meeting held June 11 at the Hip Pocket in Monticello.

His topic was the "Purpose and Function of the Family Court."

The first family court in New York State was in 1965. The children's court before that had confined jurisdiction, dealing only with juvenile problems. Besides the Supreme Court, handling all other cases, with its common law proceedings could not provide the human element and therefore is not equipped to handle all facets of family problems such as conciliation, separation, divorce. The family court can act also in a preventive role such as trying to lessen the breach or keeping the child within the family situation.

As of last year, children under 16 are entitled to the same legal protection as an adult. A child now brought to family court is first assigned legal counsel. The primary goal is the desire to do something constructive through the services of the psychiatrist of psychologist, clergyman, school, to put the young person back on the right track. Included when necessary is follow-up procedure by the probation department.

The environmental situation involving each child brought before the court must be as complete as possible including home, school and church and community factors. All these must be coordinated to make possible proper assistance to the solution of the individual problem.

The great number of cases before the court points up the need for more judges plus available psychiatric and social worker services.

Home Arts and Crafts Competitions At New York State Fair Still Open

For people who have that "can do" magic touch in sewing or working with crafts, there is still time to enter the Home Arts and Crafts Competitions of the 1968 New York State Fair.

Entries submitted to the Art and Home Center before the deadline date of Friday, Aug. 2, are eligible to compete for the $3,092 in cash awards. In the Home Arts Department $1,742 in prizes will be divided among the following categories: garments for infants and children; adult sewing including tailoring; teen-age sewing; costume; children's sewing; children's crafts; knitting; crocheting; teen-age knitting and crocheting; quilting; rugs; needlepoint; crewel embroidery; handwork or stitchery; toys, animals or dolls and early American decoration.

Also, a new Home Arts category of dolls has been added this year, according to Mrs. Gerald Twentyman, superintendent. She describes this category as dolls considered family heirlooms, story book dolls, dolls from around the world, and handmade character dolls.

The Home Arts Department is also planning to have modeled sports outfits chosen from the various eligible entries. This will tie-in with the Fair theme of "Recreation."

The $1,350 in Crafts Department premiums will be awarded for outstanding entries in weaving, ceramics, rugs and tapestries, metalwork, wood craft, and other crafts.

Social Workers Call Them 'Orphans of the Living'

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Social workers call them "the orphans of the living." Many of them are caught in "the revolving door of foster care," shuttled from one new set of foster parents or waiting without hope in institutions.

They're a new breed of children needing parents, some 300,000 of them now the wards of public and private welfare agencies. Many of them are living reasonably secure lives with foster parents while waiting return to their own homes.

But more than 100,000 of them are probably "trapped" with little or no hope of rejoining their parents and are suffering severe personality damage as a result. "Temporary" care has become permanent.

Parental Neglect
Almost half (46.5 per cent) of the children who are in foster care are placed because of parental neglect, abuse or exploitation, says Rebecca Smith, director of Information Services for the Child Welfare League of America.

The rest? Reasons vary: broken homes, economic troubles, sickness, psychiatric problems.

The plight of these new "orphans" in an age when the orphan asylum is a vanishing institution is described in a publication of the Public Affairs Committee, Inc. (PAC), a nonprofit educational organization with headquarters in New York, in cooperation with the Welfare League.

Author of the work, "Orphans of the Living: The Foster Care Crisis," is Richard Hatch, of the New York Times. He says that longer life spans for adults has almost eliminated the true orphan. Only about 70,000 children or one tenth of one per cent of the more than 70 million under 18 years of age have lost both parents through death.

The Reasons
Reasons for the short-changing of the 100,000 today, according to the publication:—A rising child population; 77.8 million under 18 years expected by 1975.

—Serious shortages of professional social workers, because schools of social work are turning away qualified students for lack of room, and the comparatively low salaries for the professionals.

—A grave shortage of foster parents.

—Crowding in temporary shelters.

—A universal lack of money to pay for essential services. Experts recommend several solutions: Prevention, which means the rehabilitation of the family; increase in the supply of social workers by adding to the number of accredited schools and raising salaries; using foster parents as "partners" of social agencies, giving the parents a more professional role.

children or one tenth of one per cent of the more than 70 million under 18 years of age have lost both parents through death.

The Reasons

Reasons for the short-changing of the 100,000 today, according to the publication: —A rising child population; 77.8 million under 18 years expected by 1975.

—Serious shortages of professional social workers, because schools of social work are turning away qualified students for lack of room, and the comparatively low salaries for the professionals.

—A grave shortage of foster parents.

—Crowding in temporary shelters.

—A universal lack of money to pay for essential services.

Experts recommend several solutions: Prevention, which means the rehabilitation of the family; increase in the supply of social workers by adding to the number of accredited schools and raising salaries; using foster parents as "partners" of social agencies, giving the parents a more professional role.

Glazer Receives Grant To Study Animal Life

RICHARD B. GLAZER

Richard B. Glazer, an associate professor of biology at Ulster County Community College, has received a National Foundation research grant and a Kingston Lions Club grant to study plant and animal life on the Sonoran Desert in Arizona this summer.

The research will be done through the Summer Institute in Desert Biology at Arizona State University in Tempe, Ariz.

In making known the Lions Club grant to help Glazer with his research, Alexander Yosman, club secretary, said the club lists among its aims the support of education and scholarship.

"We have been especially proud of the Community College and the faculty you lead so well," Yosman told President George B. Erbstein, of UCCC, in announcing the grant. "The recent award of a National Science Foundation Fellowship to one of your professors, Glazer, is a national confirmation of our local pride."

"The Kingston Lions Club wishes to add its tribute to the college," Yosman continued. "In recognition of Glazer's contributions as a teacher, coach and community worker, there is enclosed a grant to help support his research in the Sonoran Desert this summer."

Glazer, a resident of Tillson, will work on his desert research from June 24 to Aug. 30.

Glazer will examine the relationships between plants and animals, and especially the competition that exists between the two for survival. He hopes to gain some insight into the internal structure of the plant and animal communities.

Two years ago, Glazer attended a Summer Institute in Desert Biology at Arizona State University sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

Glazer received his B.S. Degree from Colorado State University and his M.S. Degree from Pennsylvania State University. He currently is working on his Ph.D. Degree at Cornell University.

At UCCC, Glazer is coordinator of the biology program and is in charge of the Medical Laboratory Technology program.

Local Director To Participate In Albany Clinic

James A. Hanson, director of group living at the Children's Home of Kingston will participate in a five-day series of seminars sponsored by the Institute for Training and Research in Child Mental Health, to be held at the State University of New York at Albany from June 24 through June 28, it was announced today.

The conference, which will be attended by professionals in the field of mental health from throughout the state, will include demonstration seminars to examine and improve the quality of care offered by the state's mental health institutions.

The Institute for Training and Research in Child Mental Health, located in New York City, is sponsored by the New York State Board of Regents. It is the only center which brings together representatives of all professions involved in mental health work, and is problems that plague the area of mental health rehabilitation. The supervisors attending the conference will study the relationship of the supervisor and the worker in child care functions, and the role of the child care worker and the treatment team.

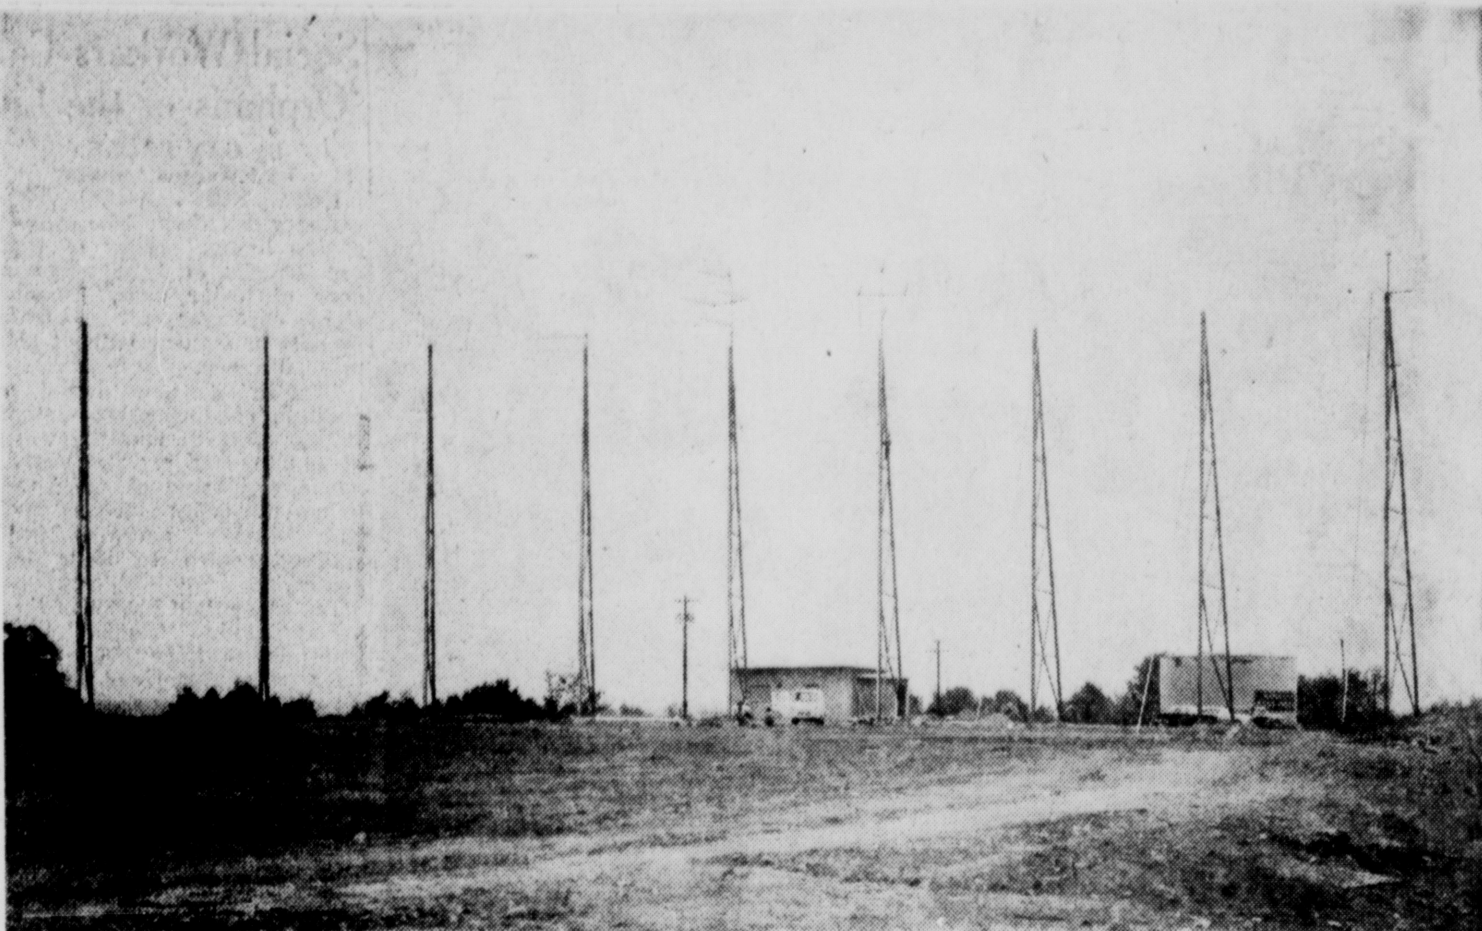

A post-seminar evaluation session will be held in August and a final report on the conference will be published. A second seminar is planned for the fall at the State University of New York at Stony Brook.

Western Outdoors Attracting Many

By WILLIAM J. STANFIELD

For millions of Americans the vacation days now beginning mean just one thing—heading for the great outdoors to spend a few days or weeks fishing, hiking along wilderness trails or just lazing in some cool, secluded forest glen.

There's not a section of the country that doesn't offer camping or tramping grounds, but increasingly in recent years Americans in search of a return to nature have sought the western outdoors.

Holiday Lure
With its towering mountain peaks, its lush valleys, cool, clear fishing streams and spectacular vistas, the West has become such a lure for holiday campers that in some cases there is grave concern among recreation and conservation officials for the preservation of the same natural wonders that bring the vacationers in their millions.

Camping for pleasure in the United States dates back at least 100 years.

As early as July 24, 1856, some 450 Utah pioneers camped in Big Cottonwood Canyon southeast of Salt Lake City. The occasion was a "picnic party" organized by Brigham Young to celebrate the ninth anniversary of the settling of the Land of Deseret by the Mormons.

It's the size of throngs of visitors overrunning some of the better known resorts that is beginning to worry some outdoor recreation officials.

Yosemite National Park, which attracted more than two million visitors last year, and Yellowstone National Park, the nation's oldest and most popular park, are both undergoing changes designed to protect the natural attractions from being ruined by overcrowding.

Popular Areas
Other popular areas, such as Grand Canyon National Park and the famed Salmon River in Idaho, also are subjects of concern.

At Yosemite, the Park Service redesigned campsites in the valley to keep campers spaced out, instituted a one-way road system, and cut the camping limit from 14 to 7 days in the valley.

According to Park Supt. Lawrence C. Hadley, "We may eventually have to eliminate cars from the valley—or convert the valley into an expanse of pavement just to handle cars."

At Yellowstone, some one-way roads were put in around the congested and popular area of Old Faithful and park officials are considering cutting down the length of camping visits.

Robert Moore, assistant regional director of the National Park Service in San Francisco, feels that tighter controls—"in a sense, a rationing of use"—will be required as camping demands increase.

"Camping is one of our major problems in trying to meet ever-increasing demands," Moore says. "The concern is that overcrowding may destroy the very thing we are trying to preserve."

Use of new facilities, such as Lake Powell on the Arizona-Utah border, is increasing as much as 500 per cent a year and there's no sign that there will be any slackening of demand at other spots.

In fact, the Forest Service anticipates a 300 per cent increase in camping use by the year 2,000 and is now planning to build in the next 10 years 21,000 new campgrounds containing 210,000 family units.

Primitive Areas
The Forest Service, next to the Park Service in popularity among many campers, controls 186 million acres including 14 million acres of wilderness and primitive areas which can be entered only on foot or on horseback—a near guarantee against overcrowding in the near future.

National forests boast more than 100,000 miles of trails, 81,000 miles of fishing streams and rivers and more than three million acres of lakes and impounded waters.

Among the most spectacular of national forest attractions is Hells Canyon, a 7,900-foot-deep chasm cut by the Snake River along the Oregon-Idaho border. At places, the canyon is 10 miles from rim to rim and approaches the Grand Canyon of the Colorado in sheer awesomeness.

Onassis Was Slow Starter, Now One of 20 Richest Men

LONDON (UPI)—Aristotleocrates Onassis was 23 before he made his first million. Despite this slow start he is now among the world's top 20 richest men.

The 62-year-old Greek-born shipping and aviation magnate is worth some 500 million, according to a new biography, "Onassis."

Onassis may actually have qualified for his place in the ranks of the world's wealthiest more than 10 years ago. His former wife, Tina Livanos (now the Marchioness of Blandford), thought he rated it when they were divorced in 1959.

Onassis then controlled more than a million tons of shipping, an airline and other important interests and who had three years earlier set up a $20 million trust fund for his children "worth many times that" in 1968.

Onassis emigrated to Argentina when he was 17 after a quarrel with his father, taking with him only $250. Eventually he discovered Argentina used very little Oriental tobacco.

A Million at 23
He patched up the quarrel with his father and got him to send him tobacco samples. He made his first sales in his 20th year and by the time he was 23 and casting about for other opportunities he had taken in more than $1 million in commissions.

At 27, Onassis was named Greece's acting consul general in Argentina, a post which brought him into contact with his first love—shipping and the sea. He wanted, like all Greeks, to own a ship. In Canada he found and bought six laid-up ships for $120,000—a tiny fraction of their original cost, taking a calculated risk on the end of a then-existing shipping depression.

After that he ordered ships, pioneering the giant tankers and other innovations, spinning an international financial empire that is essentially a one-man complex in the mold of his friend, billionaire J. Paul Getty. Biographer Willie Frischauer tells in detail the involvement with Prince Rainier and Monaco.

Behind the Glamor
Behind the glamorous parties and the celebrities who flocked to Monte Carlo during the Onassis era there began a tug-of-war between the two men. Rainier complained Onassis was slow to implement promises to build new tourist amenities. Onassis complained the development plans for Monaco had not been finalized and millions spent on new ventures might be premature and wasted. According to Frischauer this was actually what happened.

"People who say Onassis was the big boss of Monte Carlo... were barking up the wrong tree. Rainier was the ruler, the sovereign, and Onassis had no wish to curtail his authority. As a matter of fact he had no choice."

Early in 1967 the National Council of Monaco turned Onassis' majority holding into a minority one by authorizing the issuance of 600,000 new shares. Onassis later offered his shares to Monaco and received a total of $10 million or $16 a share although he felt the true value was closer to $30 million.

Profitable Sale
But since Onassis had first started buying when the shares were $4 his sale represented a handsome profit.

Onassis met opera star Maria Callas, at a party in Italy and later announced: "To meet her was an event."

Madame Callas, who is legally separated from her Italian husband, has described their relationship as "a tender and affectionate friendship." Frischauer says a file of news photographs "in which Ari (Onassis) is seen escorting Maria, kissing Maria in public, looking at Maria with adoring eyes, carrying Maria's fur naturally has raised the question of whether they will marry, an unmistakable statement of abated with the years and to "That Ari and Maria have non-intent which should see them together is to marvel remained close friends for nine life," Frischauer wrote. "His at the intensity of their years without getting married is admiration for Callas has not friendship."

Freeman Announces Opening Of New Paltz Bureau Office

In line with the rapid growth and development of the southern part of Ulster County, the Kingston Freeman has opened a New Paltz Bureau office to increase its news coverage of the area.

Freeman General Manager Richard L. Treat made the announcement today.

Appointed to the new position of bureau chief is Freeman staff writer Charles Bernpohl, former political reporter.

Bernpohl will be gathering news stories in a wide area which will include New Paltz, Ellenville and the Wawarsing area, Lloyd, Plattekill, Marl-

Shift in Emphasis

Opening of the new office represents a shift in emphasis for the 97-year-old newspaper.

The Freeman was originally intended to be strictly a City of Kingston news media. With the gradual development of other townships in Ulster County the newspaper expanded its coverage.

However, with the county's more recent industrial growth and the expansion of its educational facilities, along with a booming increase in its population, The Freeman management realized the need for another office, outside Kingston.

New Paltz was chosen for the location of the new office because it clearly reflects the extent and the direction of this growth.

The construction of new dormitories, academic and administrative buildings, art galleries and libraries will continue for at least the next seven years at the State University College, and apartment dwellings and shopping complexes are currently mushrooming where fields and cow pastures once stood.

With the accelerated growth of the southern tier of the county, new problems arise and so does the need for increased social adjustment and even more effective legislation.

All of this is newsworthy and a newspaper's task is to not only report the news but to serve as a reflection of the changing times.

A County Newspaper

With the addition of the New Paltz Bureau, The Freeman thus becomes, more than ever before, a county newspaper, presenting its readers with greater in-depth reporting of areas outside the City of Kingston.

Area residents are invited to stop in at the new bus terminal office, located on the second floor, and say hello.

News items relating to the area may be dropped off at the bureau.

GREETINGS—Town of New Paltz Supervisor Anthony Moriello greets Kingston Freeman reporter Charles Bernpohl, recently appointed bureau chief of The Freeman's New Paltz office. Along with the supervisor are (L) Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature; John H. Jacobson, president of the State University College at New Paltz and Freeman Managing Editor Peter W. Barrecchia. (Freeman Photo by Kruh).

The hearing will be held Thursday, June 27 at 8 p. m. in Glasco Fire Hall.

The work projected to improve storage capacity and water prove the flow of water from pressure.

Saugerties Village water system. The new storage standpipe is estimated to cost $90,000 and feet of 12 inch cement - lined is part of the overall figure of $280,000. The work also includes site preparation and installation of 600 feet of 8 inch water main. The specifications were drawn up by Brinnier & Larios, consulting engineers of Kingston. There have been numerous complaints, especially during drought periods, of low pressure in the Glasco and Barclay Heights area supplied by the Glasco system. A survey of the system and recommendations to alleviate the troublesome conditions was called for by action of the previous Town Board.

Councilman George Turner at recent meetings of the Town Board this year has reported on the progress of the survey.

Following the hearing before the Town Board and if approved by the board, the town will advertise for bids for the work. The job will include considerable digging and rock removal for alignment of some mains in the Barclay Heights area.

City, Ellenville Earn AAA Honors

The City of Kingston and the Village of Ellenville have been cited for pedestrian safety achievement at American Automobile Association ceremonies in New York City.

National awards were presented to officials of 54 communities by Vincent L. Tofany, State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, at the Penn Top Room of the Statler Hilton Hotel and hosted by the Automobile Club of New York. The awards were in recognition of the outstanding pedestrian protection program conducted in each community.

Communities that won awards were among 1,887 from all parts of the country that participated in the AAA's annual pedestrian safety inventory program. In 1937, there were 15,500 pedestrian deaths throughout the country. Last year, the figure was 9,300—a reduction of 40 per cent. In the same period, motor vehicle registrations have increased more than 235 per cent, population has grown more than 54 per cent, and motor vehicle travel went up 258 per cent.

Fined in Theft

Charged with the theft of two helmets from a motorcycle owned by State Trooper Carl von Wagenen of the Kingston Substation on Tuesday, June 18, Philip Stonehouse, 22, of Pine Grove, pleaded guilty Saturday before Woodstock Town Justice Rudolf Baumgarten. He paid a $25 fine. William Sherman, 19, of Lucas Avenue, Kingston, accused of the same theft, pleaded innocent and won an adjournment for hearing on June 28. The helmets have been recovered and returned to the owner.

Say Goodell May Get Senate Nod from Rocky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. senators say Rep. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., is a strong possibility to succeed the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said Sunday there is a good chance Gov. Rockefeller will appoint Goodell to the vacant seat. He said Goodell is aggressive and constructive and "could get re-elected if he were appointed."

McCarthy's State Win No Help to Democrats

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The upset victory of Sen. Eugene McCarthy's forces in the Tuesday primary elections only added to the confusion and bickering that has plagued New York Democratic leaders for the past 10 years.

The New York organization, once the most powerful in the nation, has not been able to pull together for many years and has split into many factions. McCarthy's win adds a new faction.

For a while it looked like the New Yorkers were on the comeback road under a working agreement between old time leaders and a popular young senator — Robert F. Kennedy. But, an assassin's bullet took Kennedy's life, ending what the hope the Democrats had of getting together.

Once again, control of the party was divided between New York City and upstate leaders. And, now along come McCarthy and Paul O'Dwyer, winner of the race for the party's U.S. senatorial nomination.

State chairman John Burns lost his most powerful political ally when Kennedy was slain and whether he can hang on to his job is a subject for speculation. If he could get the warring factions together before the November elections, Burns would be the world's greatest mediator. He said he will try by being fair to all parties concerned.

O'Dwyer did little to help Burns when he called on Vice President Hubert Humphrey to withdraw from the presidential race. There are many New York leaders who want no part of McCarthy despite his victory in the race for delegates to the national convention.

Some county leaders are determined to keep the McCarthy followers out of management decisions because their political lives depend on it.

"If we let these McCarthy groups sit at the head table, it would be no time before they would try to take over the whole organization," one veteran leader said. "Give 'em enough rope and they would not only hang themselves but us, too."

Humphrey is going to get a lot of backing among the state's 190 delegates even though it did not show in the Tuesday primary. Many of the "uncommitted" delegates, and there were 19 of them, will be voting for the vice president at Chicago. He will pick up others from the slate which was pledged to Kennedy.

Until a new, strong vote-getter comes along, the party's future is uncertain.

course in New York state will be charted by a group of leaders, including Stanley Steingut of Kings, Frank Rosetti of New York, Moses Weinstein of Queens and Jack English of Nassau. Upstate, the top leadership are Daniel P. O'Connell of Albany and Joseph F. Crangle of Erie.

The first major decision to be made by the controlling county leaders will come when the state committee meets to pick delegates at a large convention.

McCarthy's men want at least a majority of the 65 but forces backing Humphrey will try to block such a move. And, the committee will also determine the future of Burns.

Instructions From Within

DUARTE, Calif. (AP) — A long-sought clue to how the body recognizes and fights invaders — with potential value in the field of cancer and organ transplants — has been found in research at the City of Hope Medical Center.

Dr. Riojun Kinoshita, director emeritus of experimental pathology at the center, found the clue in working with macrophages, a type of white cell in the blood stream.

"We have learned that macrophages trap and analyze disease-causing material invading the body, then send instructions to another type of white cells; the lymphocytes, to multiply and make antibodies specifically designed to destroy the invader," Kinoshita says.

"We now think it may be possible to precondition macrophages to help us in at least two ways. First, we might train them to recognize at least some types of cancer as foreign material, so that lymphocytes would make antibodies to destroy cancer cells. Second, we might also train macrophages not to react to transplanted organs such as hearts and kidneys, in other words, to inhibit the production of antibodies naturally, without the use of radiation or drugs," Kinoshita, credited with being among the first to show that some industrial materials cause cancer in animals, reported his macrophage work in technical papers recently and then elaborated in an interview.

"Science has wondered for a long time just how our bodies can produce disease-fighting antibodies against such a wide range of foreign materials, or antigens," he said.

Newburgh Atoms Nip Kingston Braves, 3-2

Kingston Braves suffered their first defeat in three games Saturday, losing to Newburgh Atoms, 3-2, at the Newburgh Recreation stadium. A bit of complicated strategy backfired in the bottom of the seventh, when Vinnie Caserto led off with a single and was slammed a bases loaded single sacrificed to second. He advanced to third on an infield out. The teams were tied 2-2 when the Atoms came up for their last turn at bat. Pitcher Jim McMillan, who checked the Braves on four hits, strategy by lashing the game-winning single. Loses Heartbreaker Bill Thomas lost a back-breaking six - hitter, as Newburgh's first two runs were unearned. A hit and three Braves miscues sent the Atoms ahead, 2-0, in the first.

Thomas whiffed ten and struck out four. McMillan blanked the Braves after yielding two earned runs in the third, Mike Derrenbacher led off with a long triple and scored on Ron Valle's single. Joe Schabot later sent Valle home with a singleton. A leaping catch by Derren-bacher with two outs and runners on second and third broke up a Newburgh threat in the third, Derrenbacher and Bernie Schaeffer excelled on defense for Kingston. Cornwall Missiles took over the league lead with a 4-1 record, sweeping New Windsor Rockets, 7-4 and 4-0. Newburgh Atoms split a Sunday double-header with Wappingers Ions, winning 5-3 and losing, 5-1, after their win over Kingston. Middletown Explorers shut out last-place Newburgh Nuclears for their first win of the season, 7-0.

Braves resume their home schedule Friday night against Beacon Astros at Dietz Stadium at 8 p. m.

Jack Hit for Show; Charles Took Dough

TORONTO (UPI)—Bob Charles put the "arm" on Jack Nicklaus for $25,000 in winning the Canadian Open golf tournament. Charles, undismayed by Nicklaus' booming tee shots, won a tremendous birdie battle Sunday with a closing round 66 for a 274 that beat the Columbus, Ohio, slugger by two strokes.

"I guess I've always been a good putter," said the New Zealand southpaw. "I'm an arm putter, though, and don't have too much wrist movement. I was hoping my accuracy and putting would take care of Jack's big drives."

Charles said he was 20 and 30 yards behind Nicklaus after every long shot and depended upon his short strokes to win his first tournament since the Atlanta Open last September.

Charles entered the final round tied with George Knudson of Toronto at 208, one stroke in front of six others, including Nicklaus and defending champion Billy Casper.

Nicklaus, seeking to end a tournament victory drought of 236 days, pulled into a tie when he birdied the fifth hole after Knudson dropped a stroke with a bogey on the fifth.

Charles regained the lead with a birdie on the sixth, promptly bogeyed the seventh and birdied the eighth.

They came to the ninth hole, a jinx to Nicklaus in the first three rounds. Nicklaus birdied the hole and celebrated with a birdie on the 10th to take the lead. After each birdied the 11th, Charles birdied the 12th to pull even with Nicklaus.

Nicklaus gave up a stroke, bogeying the 14th then Charles birdied the 15th before bogeying the 16th.

Charles came to 18th nursing a one-stroke lead. He hit a brilliant second shot, placing the ball nine inches from the cup. He tapped in for a birdie to clinch the victory.

"I was trying for a four, I felt the worse that could happen would be a tie," Charles said. Australian Bruce Crampton, whose closing 66 put him at 277, was third. Sam Snead, R. H. Sikes, Tom Weiskopf and Tommy Aaron finished in a four-way tie for fourth place.

Nicklaus made a tremendous bid and graciously acknowledged that it wasn't good enough.

"He flat beat me," Nicklaus admitted. "Charles never hit a putt that didn't look like it was going in," Nicklaus said. "That's Charles, of course. Every putt he makes looks like it would go in."

The New Zealander, who recently bought a house in Dallas, Tex., "because it is central and you can get to any U.S. point in 2 1/2 hours," boasted his 1968 earnings to $52,785.

Last year, Charles won $72,468 to set a record for a foreign player on the U.S. tour. Not bad for a former bank clerk in Christchurch.

Uhlaender Too Much For Yanks

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—Ted Uhlaender collected five hits to pace a 15-hit attack Sunday as the Minnesota Twins topped the New York Yankees 6-3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Jim Merritt.

Uhlaender, who has had 15 hits in his last 24 at bats over a five-game span to raise his average to .295, singled in the first and scored on a throwing error by third baseman Bobby Cox.

The Twins took a 2-1 lead in the fourth when Bob Allison singled, stole second, and scored on a single by Jackie Fernandez.

In the fifth, Cesar Tovar doubled and scored on Uhlaender's second single. Minnesota collected five hits and three runs off Joe Verbanic in the seventh. Uhlaender singled, Harmon Killebrew doubled and Tony Oliva was intentionally passed to fill the bases.

The Allison, Frank Quilley and Joe Roseboro each knocked in a run with a single. Losing pitcher Fritz Peterson gave up eight hits in six innings and suffered his third loss against four victories.

Jack Hit for Show; Charles Took Dough

TORONTO (UPI)—Bob Charles put the "arm" on Jack Nicklaus for $25,000 in winning the Canadian Open golf title. Charles, undismayed by Nicklaus' booming tee shots, won a tremendous birdie battle Sunday with a closing round 66 for a 274 that beat the Columbus, Ohio, slugger by two strokes.

"I guess I've always been a good putter," said the New Zealand southpaw. "I'm an arm putter, though, and don't have too much wrist movement. I was hoping my accuracy and putting would take care of Jack's big drives."

Charles said he was 20 and 30 yards behind Nicklaus after every long shot and depended upon his short strokes to win his first tournament since the Atlanta Open last September.

Charles entered the final round tied with George Knudson of Toronto at 208, one stroke in front of six others, including Nicklaus and defending champion Billy Casper.

Nicklaus, seeking to end a tournament victory drought of 236 days, pulled into a tie when he birdied the fifth hole after Knudson dropped a stroke with a bogey on the fifth.

Charles regained the lead with a birdie on the sixth, promptly bogeyed the seventh and birdied the eighth.

They came to the ninth hole, a jinx to Nicklaus in the first three rounds. Nicklaus birdied the hole and celebrated with a birdie on the 10th to take the lead. After each birdied the 11th, Charles birdied the 12th to pull even with Nicklaus.

Nicklaus gave up a stroke, bogeying the 14th then Charles birdied the 15th before bogeying the 16th.

Charles came to 18th nursing a one-stroke lead. He hit a brilliant second shot, placing the ball nine inches from the cup. He tapped in for a birdie to clinch the victory.

"I was trying for a four, I felt the worse that could happen would be a tie," Charles said.

Australian Bruce Crampton, whose closing 66 put him at 277, was third. Sam Snead R. H. Sikes, Tom Weiskopf and Tommy Aaron finished in a four-way tie for fourth place.

Nicklaus made a tremendous bid and graciously acknowledged that it wasn't good enough.

"He flat beat me," Nicklaus admitted.

"Charles never hit a putt that didn't look like it was going in," Nicklaus said. "That's Charles, of course. Every putt he makes looks like it would go in."

The New Zealander, who recently bought a house in Dallas, Tex., "because it is central and you can get to any U.S. point in 2-1/2 hours," boosted his 1968 earnings to $52,785.

Last year, Charles won $72,468 to set a record for a foreign player on the U.S. tour. Not bad for a former bank clerk in Christchurch.

Newburgh Atoms Nip Kingston Braves, 3-2

Kingston Braves suffered their first defeat in three Hudson Valley Rookie League starts Saturday, bowing to the Newburgh Atoms, 3-2, at the Newburgh Recreation stadium.

A bit of complicated strategy backfired in the bottom of the seventh, when Vinnie Caserto led off with a single and was slammed a bases loaded single sacrificed to second. He advanced to third on an infield out.

The teams were tied 2-2 when the Atoms came up for their last turn at bat.

Pitcher Jim McMillan, who checked the Braves on four hits, Thomas whiffed ten and struck out four.

McMillan blanked the Braves after yielding two earned runs in the third. Mike Derrenbacher led off with a long triple and scored on Ron Valle's single. Joe Schabot later sent Valle home with a singleton.

A leaping catch by Derren-bacher with two outs and runners on second and third broke up a Newburgh threat in the third. Derrenbacher and Bernie Schaeffer excelled on defense for Kingston.

Cornwall Missiles took over the league lead with a 4-1 record, sweeping New Windsor Rockets, 7-4 and 4-0. Newburgh Atoms split a Sunday doubleheader with Wappingers, losing 5-3 and losing, 5-1, after their win over Kingston. Middletown Explorers shut out last-place Newburgh Nuclears for their first win of the season, 7-0.

Braves resume their home schedule Friday night against Beacon Astros at Dietz Stadium at 8 p. m.

Uhlaender Too Much For Yanks

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (UPI)—Ted Uhlaender collected five hits to pace a 15-hit attack Sunday as the Minnesota Twins topped the New York Yankees 6-3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Jim Merritt.

Uhlaender, who has had 15 hits in his last 24 at bats over a five-game span to raise his average to .295, singled in the first and scored on a throwing error by third baseman Bobby Cox.

The Twins took a 2-1 lead in the fourth when Bob Allison singled, stole second, and scored on a single by Jackie Fernandez.

In the fifth, Cesar Tovar doubled and scored on Uhlaender's second single.

Minnesota collected five hits and three runs off Joe Verbanic in the seventh. Uhlaender singled, Harmon Killebrew doubled and Tony Oliva was intentionally passed to fill the bases. The Allison, Frank Quilici and Joe Roseboro each knocked in a run with a single.

Losing pitcher Fritz Peterson gave up eight hits in six innings and suffered his third loss against four victories.

Gail Sykes Wins Gal Links Title

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Gail Sykes of Odessa Junior College in Texas, who was beaten in the first round of last year's National College Women's golf tournament, won this year's edition with ease.

Miss Sykes, 20, of Schenectady, N. Y., overwhelmed Carol Semple of Rollins College in Virginia, 10 and 9, in the 36-hole final Saturday.

Miss Semple, from Sewickley, Pa., led only after the first hole.

"I played so well. It's unbelievable," said Miss Sykes. "My putting was great, and that's where Carol had her trouble. I missed only one short putt all day."

AFTERMATH OF A RIOT — An injured man arrives at hospital on a stretcher yesterday following a stampede at River Plate stadium at the end of Buenos Aires' biggest game of the year. Police said at least 71 persons were trampled to death and another 150 injured in a panic that erupted when pranksters began throwing burning newspapers from the stands after the game in the 100,000 capacity stadium. Police Blame Hooligans

Argentine Soccer Riot Death Toll Reaches 70

By WILBUR G. LANDREY

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—

Police today blamed hooligans for tossing burning newspapers for stampeding soccer fans down a stadium exit gateway that led to death or injury for hundreds.

The human avalanche trampled to death 70 adults and children in a panic to escape the balls of fire hurled by the youths at the end of Sunday's scoreless match between Buenos Aires' arch rivals, River Plate and Boca Juniors. At least 65 persons were seriously injured on the winding, blood-stained staircase.

"What happened was that people began pushing and those in front, fell. That explains everything," said River Plate Club President Williams Kent. But some witnesses said that Gate 12, at the bottom of the gangway, was shut.

Most of the 100,000 fans in the River Plate Stadium realized the agony under the stands only when they later passed by Gate 12 and saw half-naked survivors, bleeding and moaning, lurching from the gangway.

In the midst of the song the hooligans—as is the practice in Argentina where soccer is almost a blood sport so bitter is rivalry—twisted papers into balls, lighted them and dumped them down. They apparently were Boca Junior fanatics, aiming for the River Plate fans seated below.

But the burning paper plummeted into the opening of the gangway.

"I was about 15 steps from the exit," said law student Omar Palizza, 20. "Behind me people were fighting to get out top of each other."

Mets Fell LA, 5 to 4

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cleon Jones drove in four runs with a double and a homer Sunday to pace the New York Mets to a 5-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers before 56,738—the largest crowd in the major leagues this season.

Jones, who has driven in 11 runs in his last seven games, doubled home Ken Boswell with the Mets' first run in the fourth inning and belted his eighth homer of the season in the fifth following one-out singles by Bud Harrelson and Boswell to tag Bill Singer with his seventh loss in 13 decisions.

Jones also scored the Mets' second run in the fourth on a double by Art Shamsky.

Nolan Ryan went 7-13 innings for the Mets to receive credit for his sixth victory in 11 decisions, but it took relievers Al Jackson and Ron Taylor to nail down the triumph.

Ryan hurled shutout ball before Ron Fairly homered with one out in the seventh but the young rightlander was replaced by Jackson with one out in the eighth after walking two batters. Jackson retired Len Gabrielson on an infield out, but surrendered a two-run single to pinch-hitter Ken Boyer and another single to Fairly before being replaced by Art Shamsky.

Whitworth and Post Via for PGA Laurels

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
SUTTON, Mass. (AP)—Sandra Post attempted a rare feat today in meeting defending champion Kathy Whitworth in an 18-hole playoff for the Ladies' PGA title at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Miss Post, who turned 20 just two weeks ago, had a chance to double her money earnings in her first year on the pro golf tour as she teed off against a veteran, who set a record by winning more than $44,000 in 1967.

Sandy, a resident of Oakville, Ont., a small town near Toronto, sought to become the first foreign player to win the LPGA Championship and also break a long standing hex on rookies.

A first-year player has not won an LPGA tournament since Judy Kimball captured the American Women's Classic at Minneapolis in 1961.

Miss Whitworth, a 29-year-old Texan, attempted to join Mickey Wright as the only player to win the LPGA Championship more than once. Miss Wright, a four-time winner, finished 10th with an 11-over-par 72-hole total of 303 Sunday.

Miss Post, laughing off pressure before a record crowd of 15,000, and Miss Whitworth matched par 73s in the fourth round to finish deadlocked with 294s.

Germany's Gerda Whalen had a 72 for 295 and third money of $1,800.

Red Whites Roll, Dino's in Split

The Poughkeepsie Red Whites continued to roll in the Hudson Valley Fast Pitch Softball League, knocking off Dino's, 8-3 Saturday night behind pitcher Cliff Ong.

The teams turned around and played an exhibition contest. Red Whites prevailed again, scoring an 8-0 whitewash.

Dino's came back Sunday and nosed out Green Haven Prison, 5-4.

There are a lot of good cars you can get for $3400. This is two of them*

If you don't happen to need two cars, there's only one thing that you need less. One car that costs as much as two cars.

Unless you want to pay a lot of money for a lot of horsepower that you'll never use. There's only one state in the country where you can go faster than a Volkswagen—Nevada. (No speed limit—they're big gamblers out there.)

The only extra horsepower you really need is for all those power gadgets. Which you need to drive a car that size. Which has to be that size to hold all those horses.

All of which also makes the average car cost almost as much to run as two Volkswagens. Considering a Volkswagen gets as much as 27 miles to a gallon of gas.

But if you're still not sold on the idea of two bugs for the price of one beast, why not take advantage of this special introductory offer: one Volkswagen for half the price of two.

Charlie Moore of the Ulster County Community College staff handled the upstarters with ease. He allowed only two hits, struck out eight and walked three. The locals combined five hits with four walks and four visiting errors to breeze to their first win.

Terry O'Brien, the first of two Voorheesville pitchers, was charged with the loss. The locals collected five hits. Three of the Kingston players slammed two-run hits—Gary Schatzel, Rick Sorenson and Rich Freeze.

Kingston broke a scoreless deadlock with a four-run explosion in the third inning. Schatzel's double, the only extra base in the game, knocked in two runs and errors accounted for another pair. Sorenson's single added two more runs in the fourth to put Kingston ahead, 6-0. A sacrifice fly by Rich Freeze accounted for one of two tallies in the fifth. Ed Watzka knocked in the other run.

So Manager Mayo Smith, tak-

cret weapon, starting Tracew-

an infielder produced a three-run homer that carried the Tigers to a 4-1 victory after Luis

the first game.

In other American League action Sunday, Minnesota dropped

New York 6-3, Oakland whacked

Washington 9-0, California shed-ded Baltimore 3-2 and Boston cago, winning the first game 6-2

but dropping the rain-delayed

Tracewski has hit one home run in five of his six major league seasons, missing only in 1966 when he was traded by the Los Angeles Dodgers to the Ti-

Sam McDowell for his ankle

Ray Oyler and a two-out error by Larry Brown set the stage in the fifth inning.

That was enough of a cushion for Joe Sparma and the victory kept Detroit's American League lead at 6½ games.

Tiant pitched a three-hitter in

the Indians gave him a quick edge with a three-run first in-

Legion Juniors Blank Voorheesville Nine, 8 to 0

Kingston Post's American Legion Junior baseball team started the long trek toward the New York State championship with an easy 8-0 victory over Voorheesville Post of Albany, at Dietz Stadium.

Charlie Moore of the Ulster County Community College staff handled the upstarters with ease. He allowed only two hits, struck out eight and walked three.

The locals combined five hits with four walks and four visiting errors to breeze to their first win.

Terry O'Brien, the first of two Voorheesville pitchers, was charged with the loss. The locals collected five hits.

Three of the Kingston players slammed two-run hits. Gary Schatzel, Rick Sorenson and Rich Freeze.

Kingston broke a scoreless deadlock with a four-run explosion in the third inning. Schatzel's double, the only extra baser in the game, knocked in two runs and errors accounted for another pair.

Sorenson's single added two more runs in the fourth to put Kingston ahead, 6-0. A sacrifice fly by Rich Freeze accounted for one of two tallies in the fifth. Ed Watzka knocked in the other run.

Hill-Casavant Capture Member-Guest

Joe Hill and his guest, B. Casavant of IBM, posted a best-ball net 61 to lead a 26-team field in the annual Twaalfskill men's Member-Guest tournament Sunday.

Two strokes off the pace were Dr. Charles Goffredi and Donald DeKoskie of Wiltwyck. Hill and Casavant had a combined 17 handicap.

Dr. Goffredi and DeKoskie, 19. Three-quarter handicap was allowed.

Kingston at Middletown

They backed off the half, and coming by the grandstand the first time around, CB led in 1:01.2 at the half. Just at that point, Shuter guided Song Cycle outside and began his move for the top.

Shuter's Vornado Stable-owned horse by Walter McKillo, out of Medley Hanover, by Nibble Hanover, overtook King Omaha for second on the clubhouse turn the second time around.

With Song Cycle on top and Meadow Paige passing CB on the outside, the quarter went in 1:30.3, and still, Song Cycle had plenty of steam left.

Song Cycle really poured it on in the stretch, adding an additional half-length to the two-length margin he held on Meadow Paige.

Meadow Paige was timed in 1:59.4, King Omaha came home in 2:00.2, H. A. Meadowland, guided by Ronnie Feagan, and CB were both charted in 2:00.3 and Murdock was distanced.

Ember Hanover, who left from the three also last week, and tried for a gate-to-wire victory then, only to finish last, tried it again, and this time, was triumphant by a head over Speedy Pace.

Fading badly last time, Ember Hanover again fell off somewhat at the end. He came home in :29.3 this time, staving off a strong close by Speedy Pace.

With Charlie Fleming at the controls, Ember Hanover received some help when last week's victor, Nevele Holiday got caught in traffic cutting off driver Bob Camper's bid for Arepsat triumph.

Song Cycle, a 6-1 shot, paid $14.20 to win and Ember Hanover, sent off at 5-1, returned $13.80.

MONTICELLO — It was supposed to be Cardigan Bay's Homecoming Saturday afternoon at Monticello Raceway, but Billy Shuter and his five-year-old, Song Cycle, stole the show, busting a host of records in taking the Catskills Pace in 1:59.1.

The Catskills, the feature of the afternoon portion of the Mighty M's first day-night doubleheader, had three track marks go down the drain and the national season's record for pacing on a half-mile track was equalled.

There wasn't much glory left for the evening feature, but Ember Hanover, last against the identical seven-horse field a week ago, employed last week's strategy and this time it paid off with a 2:03.3 victory.

Shuter reined the brown Song Cycle from the two hole, let Cardigan, the rail horse, cut out the pace, then swooped by just nick before reaching the three-fourths pole. He roared home in :28.3 to set a new MR standard for aged, pacing stallions. It also equalled the national season's mark for pacing on double ovals, set the night before at Roosevelt Raceway by Overcall.

Three Records Fall
Adios Butler's 1:59.4 time trial mark was sent by the Wayside as Tar Boy's 1:59.2 race mark for aged stallions. For Cardigan Bay, who wasn't disgraced, his 2:00.3 clocking, six lengths off Song Cycle's pace, clipped two-fifths of a second off his own 2:01 charting for aged, gelded pacers.

Dancer, kept CB out front as long as he could. They ran out of gas just before that three-quarters pole. Tired, but still trying, CB saw the rest of the field (sans the off - stride Murdock Hanover) pass him.

With Lucien Fontaine handling the reins, King Omaha (6) drove quickly for the top. Cardigan Bay, second, was a length ahead of Song Cycle and Billy Houghton's Meadow Paige.

In the backstretch the first time around, Dancer swung CB outside and pushed him past King Omaha. Leading by a length, CB reached the first quarter in a blistering :29.2.

Prediction Was Right, 'Laugh-In' a Success

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It happened just as Rowan and Martin predicted: "Laugh-in" is the biggest thing to hit television since the Kefauver crime hearings.

Well, almost. Certainly the Monday night frolic has captured the public's fancy in a manner rarely seen in television. It also captured Emmies, deified Tiny Tim, immortalized beautiful downtown Burbank, loosed a spate of imitative TV and radio commercials and induced everyone from presidential candidates to taxi drivers to say "Sock it to me" and "Here comes the judge."

I must confess I played the Doubting Thomas when I listened to Dan Rowan and Dick Martin glow about the program's chances before it went on the air. There has never been anything like it, they insisted, as have countless stars of other now-forgotten series.

Enjoying the Results
But they were right, and now they are enjoying the results of their success. They are not taking it big; 17 years as a comedy team have made them realistic. They can be excused if they enjoy a few "I-told-you-so's."

"Laugh-in" is simply applying to television some of the things that Marshall McLuhan has been writing about," said Dan Rowan, referring to the message of "The Medium is the Message" and other works of modern media.

"I don't think anyone has really dealt with the impact of the visual medium before. Now you are beginning to see commercials in which the visual is uppermost. But many of the commercials are still using the same tried-and-true method of printing the message on the screen and having an announcer repeat it vocally.

"Right!" said Dick Martin. These two seldom disagree, except in their bickering comedy routines and politics—Dan is a McCarthy man; Dick was for Kennedy.

"It was the same in the TV variety show," continued Rowan, the straight man of the team. "How long could personable hosts go on introducing personable guests? The variety format was carried intact from radio, which in turn had merely adapted the vaudeville technique."

"What we're doing is not entirely new," commented Dick, the blank-faced zany. "Olson and Johnson did it for years with their 'Hellzapoppin' shows. It's simply throwing gags at the audience with as much speed and shock as possible. You take a series of jokes, throw away the question and just leave the punchlines, and you call it 'cocktail party.'"

"Other variety shows always closed with music. We close with jokes—the joke wall. They're not all great, but they hold the audience's attention, right to the end of the show."

Watch Every Minute
"Some people in television don't realize how brief the attention span of the audience is. While watching other variety shows, you can turn away and just listen for a while. Not 'Laugh-in.' You've got to watch it every minute or you'll miss something. That's why we throw on signs that are on the screen so briefly you can't possibly read them. But you'll be able to read the sign we want you to read."

Now that they have concluded their sensational half-year in TV, the question arises: What can they do next season?

"Naturally we can't play it exactly the same," said Dick. "We'll change, but the changes will be gradual. We will add new characters to the cocktail party and put new elements into 'sock-it-to-me time.' New things will be happening all the time."

Humid Spot
The island of Java is one of the world's most humid spots. The humidity there averages between 75 and 90 per cent. In Jakarta, there is a thunderstorm on the average of every third day in the year.

Compensation Benefits Hiked By Rockefeller

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has signed five bills to increase the social insurance benefits payable to the state's working men and women.

Two of the bills raise from $55 to $65 a week the payments to workers idled by sickness and unemployment.

A third increases workman's compensation benefits from $60 to $85 weekly for workers who are totally disabled temporarily.

The fourth raises payments to injured workers or their widows, guaranteeing them at least $50 a week from combined federal and state sources.

Under the last bill, volunteer firemen with permanent benefits for partial or total disability would receive $75 a week, while those who are totally disabled temporarily would get $85. The old figures for both categories were $60.

Rockefeller's action on the bills was announced Saturday. All took effect immediately.

Rockefeller had until mid night Sunday to dispose of the remainder of the 1,036 bills the 1967 legislature left for him when it adjourned May 25.

His office was expected to announce today his decision on other bills.

Any bills he has not signed will be automatically vetoed, but the governor has never resorted to the "pocket veto."

The governor also signed a bill to continue the current rate of the stock transfer tax, which was increased 25 per cent in 1966. The rate would continue until July 1, 1969. Another portion of the bill would provide non residents with a 50 per cent reduction in the amount they must pay on stock transfers.

New Programs Says Urban League Head

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Head of the National Urban League, says his organization has developed new programs and a new direction to meet today's crucial civil rights problems.

Young told the group's Albany chapter Saturday night that the organization would move into the ghettos, organize them, and develop leaders who could meet with leaders of the power structure in creative exchanges.

He said the group also would try to increase the role of the Negro middle class in the civil rights struggle and would use its white and Negro board members to combat prejudice among white people.

Dear Abby

Responsible for Own Life

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged woman. My son is 28. He has been given the finest education, and good moral training, along with all the better things of life. My problem concerns his morals which embarrass me greatly.

He is already supporting two children out of wedlock and is presently going with a young woman from a good family. She has her own apartment and my son has spent the night there several times and thinks nothing of it.

He is taking up this marriageable young woman's time and seems genuinely fond of her, so I asked him why he doesn't marry her. He replied, "I do not intend to marry anyone as I'm not the marrying kind."

I tried to tell him that a decent man should have a wife and family, and not be Tom-catting around the way he does. Please comment on this in your column as I know he reads it. Maybe you can help to solve this problem.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: The problem is not HIS — it's yours. You seem unwilling to accept the fact that your son is a grown man and must take the responsibility for his own actions.

I realize that it is embarrassing for you, but there is nothing you can do about it. Eventually he may change his philosophy and his way of living. I hope he does, more for his sake than yours, but if he does it won't be because his mother (or I) gave him a lecture on "morality."

DEAR ABBY: My husband has two bachelor brothers, younger than he is. They both make more money than my husband does.

I have invited them to my home for Sunday dinners time after time, and not once have they invited my husband and me out for a meal.

Whenever I have some of my husband's other relatives here for a meal I include these two brothers. They always jump at the chance to come as they love my cooking, and to tell you the truth, I enjoy having them.

I finally told my husband, "No more." He says I should write to you — that you would say to keep inviting them, regardless. I say, being a woman you would understand how I feel and would side with me. Well?

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Your husband is right. This world is made up of two kinds of people. The givers and the takers. You are a "giver" and you'll never change. You enjoy giving as much as the brothers enjoy taking. Why punish yourself?

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago my fiancé left for Viet Nam. I promised I'd wait for him and I am. The only place I ever go is to and from work and I ride with a bunch of women. Here is my problem: When Rick (fake name) left, I weighed 118. Now I weigh 140! I am home every night and I can't seem to stay out of the refrigerator. I eat out of boredom and nervousness. I stocked up on diet foods and drinks, which I enjoy in addition to everything else in sight.

Rick writes, "In seven months I'll be coming home to my little girl." He should only know. Please help me.

RICK'S GIRL: Get acquainted with "OVER EATERS ANONYMOUS." Oswald: "Of course, a player will false card when he is sure that his partner won't be fooled but declarer may be."

Oswald: "This hand surely illustrates our point. East should have realized that the best chance to beat the contract would be to return a club. However, East did go wrong and West could have prevented the error."

Jim: "It takes a lot of courage to lead the king from a holding of king-seven-four-three, but West should have seen that he could not beat the hand with a club lead if it were going to matter whether he led the king or the trey."

A Switch of Emphasis on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The winter

Smothers Brothers show serves up humor with some

Smothers Brothers show is music

emphasis.

In cold weather, it was the jokes, the sketches and the topical humor that were the impormuch pushed into the back-that had its premiere Sunday night.

Quiet, Effective Style

Glen Campbell, an attractive the show for the summer, and in

proved to be interesting musically and to have a quiet but effective style all his own.

He was backed up by most of

comedian Pat Paulsen.

Nancy Sinatra was the guest star. The Smothers Brothers

off to a good start.

Like NBC's summer replace-

at the young audience.

Co-produced by Tommy

monplace 60 minutes that will not make TV history. But then, summer shows almost never do.

It will be interesting to see if the Smothers Brothers and their staff go ahead with their elaborate plans to satirize, through

Pat Paulsen's parody, the current political campaigns. When

portrait of a double-talking clique-bound presidential hopeful was highly amusing. Then, in the course of events, the world business of running for president abruptly lost most of its humorous content.

Each season there are a certain number of replacements and additions to casts of established programs. Actors leave

ries could stand some fresh faces.

There will be an unusually

season, however, and an extraordinarily higher percentage of them will be Negroes.

Programs adding Negro performers are comedy serieslike

"The Flying Nun" and "Gomer

Pyle" to the action shows like "Mannix" who will have a new secretary with a young son.

A Negro neurosurgeon will arrive in "Peyton Place." Later on, the evening soap opera will develop plot lines involving the

Rodriguez, a Canadian actor with wide stage and screen experience, will play the role.

A Switch of Emphasis on TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The winter Smothers Brothers show serves up humor with some musical interludes. The summer Smothers Brothers show is music with humor. It is a switch of emphasis.

In cold weather, it was the jokes, the sketches and the topical humor that were the important elements. That is pretty much pushed into the background in the tuncful CBS hour that had its premiere Sunday night.

Quiet, Effective Style
Glen Campbell, an attractive young singer, has taken over the show for the summer, and in his first assignment as star proved to be interesting musically and to have a quiet but effective style all his own.

He was backed up by most of the winter regulars—the dancers, the musical organization and comedian Pat Paulsen. Nancy Sinatra was the guest star. The Smothers Brothers turned up, too, to get the show off to a good start.

Like NBC's summer replacement for Dean Martin's hour, the program is aimed primarily at the young audience.

Co-produced by Tommy Smothers, the show was a commonplace 60 minutes that will not make TV history. But then, summer shows almost never do.

It will be interesting to see if the Smothers Brothers and their staff go ahead with their elaborate plans to satirize, through Pat Paulsen's parody, the current political campaigns. When it started months ago, Paulsen's portrait of a double-talking cliché-bound presidential hopeful was highly amusing. BARRYTOWN MEETING — Hamilton Fish Jr., left, Republican candidate for Congress, is shown with Congressman Gerald P. Ford, House minority leader. They appeared at a Republican rally Saturday sponsored by Women for a Republican 28th Congressional District, held at the home of Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Barrytown.

Ford Raps Administration, Urges Voters to Back Fish

By JON POWERS

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress from the 28th district, returned to the area for the first time since last Tuesday's primary and was host to House Minority leader, Gerald P. Ford of Michigan at a reception held at the famed Rockefeller House in Barrytown on Saturday.

Fish had flown to Washington immediately after his primary victory over G. Gordon Liddy to attend a school for candidates cosponsored by the GOP National Congressional Campaign Committee. The Midbrook attorney left Washington early Saturday morning with Rep. Ford and flew directly to Albany, where he and Ford taped a television interview. The pair then drove to Hudson for a meeting with Fish's Greensboro campaign leader, Mr. Liddy, who arrived in Barrytown late Saturday afternoon.

At Rockefeller House, some 200 of Fish's campaign leaders and supporters heard Congressman Ford blast the policies of the Johnson-Ford administration and the representation of Ellenville Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Speaking of Resnick and his 1966 victory over Fish, Ford said, "How could such a good district be so badly represented? It was bad enough in 1964, but the mistake was even worse in 1966." He appealed to the campaign workers gathered at Rockefeller House to help the 28th district "get the kind of representation it deserves."

"It certainly deserves better than it has had," he said.

Congressman Ford anticipated that a Republican would be elected to the Presidency in November, but he indicated that former Vice President Nixon did not have the nomination locked up. He stated that if the House of Representatives were to gain a majority of seats in November, the fiscal mess of the United States would be cleared up and "America would be put back on a responsible course."

Ford said that the United States is in the "throes of the worst inflationary period since the Korean War." He said the fiscal crisis in America today "is but one of the evil ramifications of the Johnson administration."

"Regrettably," he continued, "the administration's only answer has been to increase taxes. In the House, the Republicans objective is to end his criticisms of Johnson by saying, 'I didn't vote to put LBJ in the White House and I'm proud that I didn't.'"

Returning to the upcoming November elections, Ford expressed dissatisfaction with the campaign policies of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. He said "the unrest in the United States today won't be satisfied with a mere name substitution, which is what Hubert really is."

The Michigan Republican went on to say that New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller has a good chance to beat Nixon in the primary, despite the former vice president's "substantial lead."

But Ford emphasized that even if a Republican did not win in November, it was essential that the Democrats do not retain control of the House. He expressed confidence that the voters would swing the tide towards the Republican side in November. He pointed out that in 1966, the Republicans gained 47 seats in the House. "With the deteriora-

Hubert, Nixon Gain Delegate Strength

Presidential frontrunners Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon rolled up more delegate strength over the weekend and moved closer to their party nominations.

Nixon took a giant stride by scoring victories in South Carolina, Louisiana, Maryland, Washington and Montana.

254 Votes

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has 254 delegate votes after getting only a handful this weekend.

Nixon's only setback came in New Mexico where Gov. Ronald Reagan picked up half the state's 12 delegate votes. Two others were uncommitted.

Humphrey picked up 38½ votes in Minnesota, compared with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's 13½. In Connecticut, where because they weren't given the votes they thought they should have, Humphrey collected probably 35 votes out of the state's 44 delegate votes.

Humphrey and McCarthy, meanwhile, made the Vietnam War the chief campaign issue.

McCarthy reaffirmed his intention to visit Paris to look in on the Vietnam peace talks and Humphrey called for a cease-fire.

McCarthy said he doesn't plan to negotiate with North Vietnam delegates to the Paris talks, but "it might be a good thing for me as a presidential candidate to speak to them... (and) find out what the possibilities for some kind of accommodation or settlement are."

Humphrey proposed a cease-fire in an interview with the New York Times.

In other political developments:

Sen. Mark Hatfield—The Oregon dove, who last week endorsed Nixon for the presidency, said Sunday he would accept the GOP vice presidential nomination.

Could Beat Nixon—A Gallup Poll showed McCarthy has edged ahead of both Nixon and Rockefeller. The poll also indicated Humphrey could beat Nixon but would lose to Rockefeller.

Rockefeller—The New York governor said he would favor a rule requiring states with large Negro populations to send biracial delegations to the Republican National Convention. He also downgraded Nixon's delegate strength as only an "indication" of his current support, which "doesn't really count."

George C. Wallace—The former governor of Alabama, revealed plans for a series of appearances throughout the nation to solicit support for his third party candidacy.

Humphrey Wins Backyard Duel

ST. PAUL, Minn. UPI—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey won the family argument from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in their own backyard.

Minnesota's Democrat - Farmer - Labor party, which sent both men to Congress, gave Humphrey its support for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention and passed a resolution favoring his Vietnam position.

But Humphrey's supporters at the two-day state convention this weekend had to fight off a stiff challenge from McCarthy's backers. Humphrey Saturday night won all 20 at-large delegates to the national convention and held McCarthy to a rule requiring states with large Negro populations to send biracial delegations to the Republican National Convention. At the Democratic National Convention, Humphrey will have 38½ votes from Minnesota to 13½ for McCarthy.

REAFFIRMS INTENTION — Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), appearing on "Issues and Answers" (ABC-TV), reaffirmed his intention to go to Paris and look in on the peace talks. He said that the contention his projected visit would embarrass the Johnson Administration was "just the Administration line." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

SUFFERN, N. Y. (UPI)—bombs, described as one of the most explosive and dangerous in the fireworks line.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson were listed in satisfactory condition in the hospital. Three of their children were in fair condition.

Ten persons were injured in the Saturday mishap, including five children.

Police said James George Jr., 35, lost his hand at the wrist and sustained numerous other injuries. George was holding a bag of fireworks in his hand, according to police, when the explosion occurred.

Elaine Dickerson, one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Junius Dickerson of Fish Creek Road, Fishs Eddy, N. Y., suffered the loss of an eye.

Police said they believed the bag contained mostly cherry

ity in the big states like California and Texas. He reminds in interviews that California will have at least four different presidential candidates on the ballot.

The former Alabama governor does not talk about segregation and he repeatedly says he is not a racist. But he speaks out against federal guidelines, including those on school integration, and he is against the open housing law.

Both Connally and Sanders alluded to the law-and-order issue which Wallace has hammered in his speeches. This has a strong appeal among voters, Sanders said, and the Democratic candidates ought to talk about it.

On Most Ballots

Wallace has already won positions on the ballot in more than one-half the states. All indications are that he will be on the ballot in most states by November.

He tells listeners how he made the ballot in California by getting 107,263 voters to re-register as members of his American Independent party—when only 66,000 were needed. He also points to the turnout of thousands for his party's county conventions in Texas.

It might be in his plans to work hard at winning the plural-

Ford Raps Administration, Urges Voters to Back Fish

By JON POWERS

Hamilton Fish Jr., Republican candidate for Congress from the 28th district, returned to the area for the first time since last Tuesday's primary and was host to House Minority leader, Gerald Ford of Michigan at a reception held at the famed Rokeby House in Barretstown on Saturday.

Fish had flown to Washington immediately after his primary victory over G. Gordon Liddy to attend a school for candidates conducted by the GOP National Congressional Campaign Committee. The Midbrook attorney left Washington early Saturday morning with Rep. Ford and flew directly to Albany, where he and Ford taped a television interview. The pair then drove to Hudson for a meeting with Fish's Greene County campaign leaders. They arrived in Barretstown late Saturday afternoon.

At Rokeby House, some 30 of Fish's campaign leaders and supporters heard Congressman Ford blast the policies of the Johnson-Humphrey administration and the representation of Ellenville Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick.

Speaking of Resnick and his 1966 victory over Fish, Ford said, "How could such a good district be so badly represented? It was bad enough in 1964, but the mistake was even worse in 1966." He appealed to the campaign workers gathered at Rokeby House to help the 28th district "get the kind of representation it deserves."

"It certainly deserves better than it has had," he said.

Congressman Ford anticipated that a Republican would be elected to the Presidency in November, but he indicated that former Vice President Nixon did not have the nomination locked up. He stated that if the House of Representatives were to go a majority of seats in November, the "fiscal mess of the United States" would be cleared up and "America would be put back on a responsible course."

Ford said that the United States is in the "throes of the worst inflationary period since the Korean War." He said the fiscal crisis in America today "is but one of the evil ramifications of the Johnson administration." "Regrettably," he continued, "the administration's only answer has been to increase taxes. In the House, the Republicans objective is to end his criticisms of Johnson by saying, 'I didn't vote to put LBJ in the White House and I'm proud that I didn't.'"

Returning to the upcoming November elections, Ford expressed dissatisfaction with the campaign policies of Vice President Hubert Humphrey. He said "the unrest in the United States today won't be satisfied with a mere name substitution, which is what Hubert really is."

The Michigan Republican went on to say that New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller has a good chance to beat Nixon in the primary, despite the former vice president's "substantial lead." But Ford emphasized that, even if a Republican did not win in November, it was essential that the Democrats do not retain control of the House. He expressed confidence that the voters would swing the tide towards the Republican side in November. He pointed out that in 1966, the Republicans gained 47 seats in the House. "With the deterioration in the United States today," said Ford, "we should add another 66." Ford drew his biggest laugh of the afternoon when he said that "we have the quality even though the Democrats have the quantity."

Candidate Fish was in agreement with most of Ford's statements. He had previously proposed "surgery" on the administration's budget and is regarded as a liberal on the Vietnam conflict. Fish emphasized that the reduction of crime, and industrial and social development are the most important problems facing the five-county 28th district.

He said that the recent results of the Democratic primary in New York indicate that many Democrats are "disenchanted" with the Johnson administration. When asked about the political future of Resnick, a Johnson supporter defeated in that primary, and the man who defeated Fish for a House seat in 1966, he said he believes Resnick is finished with politics "for a while."

Fish said that he would spend the early part of the summer making speeches and organizing his campaign for Resnick's vacated seat in the House. He said he would begin his active campaigning in the latter part of the summer.

Ford spoke briefly on Fish's campaign for Congressman from the 28th district. He said, "You have a great candidate in Ham Fish. We will see on Nov. 5 whether a good choice has been made to represent this district."

Ford has been one of the Republican Party's most active campaigners since he became House minority leader in 1965. He has traveled about 200,000 miles a year campaigning for Republican House candidates. The Michigan congressman returned to Washington immediately after Saturday's reception.

Hubert, Nixon Gain Delegate Strength

Presidential frontrunners Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon rolled up more delegate strength over the weekend and moved closer to their party nominations.

Nixon took a giant stride by scoring victories in South Carolina, Louisiana, Maryland, Washington and Montana.

Humphrey picked up delegate strength from his home state of Minnesota and in Connecticut.

Gaining nearly 100 delegate votes, Nixon now has about 600 committed delegate votes, with 667 votes needed for the nomination.

254 Votes

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has 254 delegate votes after getting only a handful this weekend.

Nixon's only setback came in New Mexico where Gov. Ronald Reagan picked up half the state's 12 delegate votes. Two others were uncommitted.

Humphrey picked up 38½ votes in Minnesota, compared with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's 13½. In Connecticut, where because they weren't given the votes they thought they should have, Humphrey collected probably 35 votes out of the state's 44 delegate votes.

The vice president now has 899 committed convention votes, with 1,312 needed for nomination.

Humphrey and McCarthy, meanwhile, made the Vietnam War the chief campaign issue.

McCarthy reaffirmed his intention to visit Paris to look in on the Vietnam peace talks and Humphrey called for a ceasefire.

McCarthy said he doesn't plan to negotiate with North Vietnam delegates to the Paris talks, but "it might be a good thing for me as a presidential candidate to speak to them . . . (and) find out what the possibilities for some kind of accommodation or settlement are."

Humphrey proposed a ceasefire in an interview with the New York Times.

In other political developments: Sen. Mark Hatfield—The Oregon dove, who last week endorsed Nixon for the presidency, said Sunday he would accept the GOP vice presidential nomination.

Could Beat Nixon

Gallup Poll—A Gallup Poll showed McCarthy has edged ahead of both Nixon and Rockefeller. The poll also indicated Humphrey could beat Nixon but would lose to Rockefeller.

Rockefeller—The New York governor said he would favor a rule requiring states with large Negro populations to send biracial delegations to the Republican National Convention. He also downgraded Nixon's delegate strength as only an "indication" of his current support, which "doesn't really count."

George C. Wallace—The former governor of Alabama, revealed plans for a series of appearances throughout the nation to solicit support for his third party candidacy.

Humphrey Wins Backyard Duel

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey won the family argument from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in their own backyard.

Minnesota's Democrat—Farmer—Labor party, which sent both men to Congress, gave Humphrey its support for the presidential nomination at the Democratic National Convention and passed a resolution favoring his Vietnam position.

But Humphrey's supporters at the two-day state convention this weekend had to fight off a stiff challenge from McCarthy's backers. Humphrey Saturday night won all 20 at-large delegates to the national convention and held McCarthy to the delegates he won earlier this year at district conventions. The convention disregarded McCarthy's claim to a proportionate share of the at-large places. At the Democratic National Convention, Humphrey will have 38½ votes from Minnesota to 13½ for McCarthy.

Wallace Touring South, Hopeful of Nomination

By DON MCKEE

George C. Wallace's barnstorming across the South to the cheers of zealous supporters indicates his increasingly significant role in the presidential election.

"We are not running to throw it into the House of Representatives," he told crowds on his Southern fund-raising tour last week. "We are running to win."

But at this stage, even those governors supporting or leaning toward Wallace are not making all-out predictions of victory. Gov. Albert Brewer of Alabama is supporting the third-party candidate and says: "I think he has an excellent chance of winning."

Brewer predicted Wallace would carry Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia "of a certainty." And he said Wallace has an excellent chance of taking Texas, Arkansas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Virginia.

Five States or More

Even though Brewer is partisan, behind the scenes there were other governors who agreed Wallace might carry from 5 to 10 states or more. Gov. John Connally of Texas told newsmen at the Southern Governors Conference recently that both major party candidates should "run scared of George Wallace."

Former Georgia Gov. Carl E. Sanders said Wallace would sweep the South unless the Democratic organizations get busy.

"If," said Sanders, "the state and national party keeps sitting around while he gains momentum, then it is going to be too late."

Both Connally and Sanders alluded to the law-and-order issue which Wallace has hammered in his speeches. This has a strong appeal among voters, Sanders said, and the Democratic candidates ought to talk about it.

On Most Ballots

Wallace has already won positions on the ballot in more than one-half the states. All indications are that he will be on the ballot in most states by November.

He tells listeners how he made the ballot in California by getting 107,263 voters to re-register as members of his American Independent party—when only 66,000 were needed. He also points to the turnout of thousands for his party's county conventions in Texas.

It might be in his plans to work hard at winning the plural-

REAFFIRMS INTENTION — Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), appearing on "Issues and Answers" (ABC-TV), reaffirmed his intention to go to Paris and look in on the peace talks. He said that the contention his projected visit would embarrass the Johnson Administration was "just the Administration line." (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Suffern Explosion Injures 10 Persons

SUFFERN, N. Y. (UPI)—bombs, described as one of the most explosive and dangerous in the fireworks line.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson were listed in satisfactory condition in the hospital. Three of their children were in fair condition.

Ten persons were injured in the Saturday mishap, including five children.

Police said James George Jr., 35, lost his hand at the wrist and sustained numerous other injuries. George was holding a bag of fireworks in his hand, according to police, when the explosion occurred.

Elaine Dickerson, one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Junius Dickerson of Fish Creek Road, Fishers Eddy, N. Y., suffered the loss of an eye.

Police said they believed the bag contained mostly cherry
